'ROYALTY' ON PARADE

Victoria's "royal family" on a throne of flowers was feature attraction of the Victoria Day parade Monday. Newly-crowned Queen Sherrin Molyard and her two princesses Elaine Hiscock and Mona McConnell waved to cheering spectators as they drove slowly through streets choked by over 75,000 holidaying Victorians. Bright sun helped attract the largest audience ever for the parade.

LAST TWO SURVIVORS TAKEN FROM MCKINLEY

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Alaska's mountain rescue saga ended today with the safe arrival here of the last two men stranded on Mount McKinley since last Tuesday night.

The Whittaker Twins of Redmond, Wash.—James and Louis—were taken to the Elmendorf Air Force Base hospital for treatment of minor frostbite.

The Whittakers came down off the mountain under their own power.

Still on the mountain were 15 to 20 mountain climbers, who took part in the rescue of the Whittakers, two companions and a very ill woman who had been a member of another climbing party.

RCMP Tracking Smuggled Chinese

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Immigration authorities said today a series of RCMP raids across the country this morning could lead to the smashing of a well-organized Chinese immigration racket.

For several years now, immigration officials have suspected the existence of an international organization to obtain illegal entry to Canada for Chinese from China, Hong Kong and Macao.

The RCMP raided homes in Montreal, Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Sarnia, Peterborough and the Eastern Townships of Quebec this morning, seeking further evidence in their investigations.

The latest full-scale investigation was ordered about one and a half years ago by Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough, who told the House of Commons in January it was a matter of "grave concern."

Immigration investigators have made several trips to Hong Kong, where they dovetailed their probe with investigations conducted by the British Colonial Office.

Federal authorities fear blackmail and slavery are involved in the immigration racket.

They say some Chinese employers pay up to $5,000 for the forged passports and documents and transportation required to bring a Hong Kong Chinese to Canada. The immigrant is then required to work for slave wages, under the threat of exposure and deportation.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(CP)—Trying to repair the wreckage of the summit, the United Nations Security Council was called back into its emergency session this afternoon after hearing the Soviet Union and the United States exchange spy charges.

Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon was among those expected to speak, and in the background of the debate was a proposal calling on the Big Four to resume the negotiations that collapsed at the summit in Paris last week.

Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko charged at the opening of the special session Monday that U.S. spy flights were aggressive acts creating a threat to universal peace.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge retorted that Russia has thousands of spies around the world.

Gromyko—the only foreign minister in the debate—spoke for an hour, following in more moderate terms the denunciation of the U.S. unleashed by Premier Khrushchev in Paris.

QUOTES CHIEF

Lodge spoke for only 15 minutes and he, too, quoted the words of his chief, President Eisenhower, at the summit regarding the American U-2 spy flights that drew Russian wrath.

At the outset of the debate council president Sir Claude Corde of Ceylon pleaded for a "renewed spirit of goodwill" and said the security body had the "opportunity to conduct its

Spy-Plane Probe Called

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate foreign relations committee voted unanimously today to conduct a "full and bipartisan inquiry" into the spy-plane incident and events leading up to the collapse of the summit conference.

The inquiry will start Friday with testimony from State Secretary Christian Herter.

It will be conducted at closed sessions, but edited transcripts of testimony will be made public after being censored for security reasons.

Russians Release 9 Fliers

BERLIN (UPI)—The Soviet Union promised today to release the nine Americans captured Friday when their army C-47 transport strayed behind the Iron curtain and it was believed the nine would reach West Germany this afternoon.

The U.S. army dispatched a liaison team headed by Lt.-Col. Clarke T. Baldwin of Warren, Va., deep into Communist territory to bring the nine persons aboard to safety, either in their own airplane or by road.

The team of army officers from the American military mission Potsdam, East Germany, inspected the plane this afternoon in the grain field where Soviet MIG-17 jet fighters forced it to land Friday.

The Soviet decision to release the plane was announced in an unusually conciliatory letter from Col.-Gen. O. L. Jacobowski, Soviet commander in Germany, to Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, U.S. army commander.

The note—which contrasted sharply with Russian reaction to the U-2 spy plane incident—said the eight men and one woman and their aircraft would be turned over to the U.S. army at the point where it landed and at a time chosen by the U.S. army.

MISSILE SPOTTER

U.S. Fires Spy-in-Sky Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The United States launched a 24-ton Midas earth satellite today to test a "spy-in-the-sky" system for detecting hostile missiles within seconds after they are fired.

A few hours later it was reported the satellite was successfully in orbit.

An 88-foot, two stage Atlas-Agena blasted from the Cape at 1:37 p.m., EDT with the limousine-sized Moonlet. The rumble may echo in diplomatic halls.

The satellite, dubbed Midas II and essentially a repeat of a shot which failed Feb. 26, was equipped with a super-cooled infra-red sensor to spot missile launchings from an orbit about 300 miles above earth.

The space-borne alarm system, peering over thousands of square miles each second, would give America a 30-minute warning of an impending missile onslaught. This is about twice the warning time available with present radar systems.

The Air Force planned to test the satellite with flares fired at Edwards Air Force Base and Vandenberg AFB, Calif., this week. It also was reported the air force might time the launchings of intercontinental ballistic missiles to coincide with a pass by Midas II.

WIFE MADE SURE HUSBY GOT NABBED

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—When officers arrived at the residence of a hurry-up call, the wife told them her husband was inside drunk and she wanted him arrested.

The officers demurred, explaining that a man cannot be arrested for being drunk in his own home.

The woman picked up her husband, carried him out into the street and dumped him. "He's in a public street now, arrest him!" Police did.

SLAYER OF TWO FLEES

FRANKLIN, Pa. (UPI)—A father of 10 children, released only a week ago from a mental hospital, ambushed and shot to death a neighbor and then returned to his home and killed his wife before fleeing into a wooded area 18 miles north of here early today.

Police did.

Island Gas Rates Appeal

An appeal for cheaper natural gas rates on Vancouver Island is being made to the National Energy Board.

The application by Island Transmission Co. is believed the first case put before the newly-created Ottawa board.

Gas prices proposed by Magna Pipelines for the island would be "prohibitive," Island President Richard M. Bond, of Nanaimo, said today.

Magna was awarded a certificate of convenience to go ahead with a pipeline to the island by the Public Utilities Commission. Island was the loser.

A price of 32 cents per thousand cubic feet was proposed by Magna, which has an agreement with Westcoast Transmission Ltd., which serves the lower mainland, to buy its gas here. Island says it can supply cheaper gas.

The appeal application, which is being filed by former B.C. attorney-general Gordon Wismer, says Westcoast has a contract with a U.S. firm to sell gas for only 22 cents.

"We believe that this is a serious discrimination against the people and the industries established on Vancouver Island," said Mr. Bond.

"We are also convinced that it will further hinder the development of new industry on the island and that it will give the lower mainland a preferred position when new industrial projects are under consideration."

Gas tariffs should be equalized, said Mr. Bond.

Pacific Northwest Pipeline Co. in the U.S. has a tariff one third below that of the B.C. lower mainland, he said.

By the time the gas reached the island customer, transmission costs would have pushed its price considerably higher. Estimated price by Magna is 60 cents to the customer per thousand cubic feet.

Mr. Bond said that Island Natural Gas Co., which has a contract with Westcoast to supply the Okanagan, is subsidizing the parent company to cut its rates.

"Island Transmission is fully prepared to sign the same type of contract as that applying to Pacific Northwest," said Mr. Bond.

The National Energy Board, he said, has the power to ensure all tolls "are just and reasonable."

The PUC certificate award to Magna is currently being appealed by Island to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-council.

Mr. Bond suggested the energy board might influence the appeal by laying down "just" rates.

PRAYER FOR TODAY
Our dear heavenly Father, give me the peace from knowing that this day I shall seek Thy presence with words of adoration, feelings of deep devotion to Thy will and deeds of dedicated service in Thy kingdom. Having done my best to serve Thee, let me not fret, but leave the outcome of my efforts to Thy care; in Jesus' name. Amen.

Japan Battered By Huge Seas

TOKYO (UPI)—Tidal waves up to 32 feet high lashed a great crescent of the Pacific from Australia to Alaska Monday night and today.

Partial reports listed at least 139 dead and many missing from the earthquake-driven seas which rammied across the ocean at speeds up to 400 miles an hour.

Uncounted hundreds were injured and damage ran into millions of dollars.

Japan's heavily populated main island of Honshu bore the brunt of the towering walls of water which pounded the coasts at 40-minute intervals for periods as long as 18 hours. Nearly 800 casualties—dead, missing and injured—were reported in Japan alone.

At least 150,000 were homeless in Japan.

The tidal waves, rolling westward from earthquake-stricken Chile, struck the Hawaiian Islands Monday, killing 32 persons and leaving 27 missing.

The waves swept on to Okinawa, the Philippines, New Zealand, Japan, Australia, and most Pacific islands.

Officials in Hawaii said damage to the Hilo waterfront alone would run as high as $50,000,000.

Loss of life on such U.S. Pacific bastions as Okinawa, Johnston Island and others was prevented by ample warning. However three natives were killed on Okinawa and eight Maori were swept out to sea when 10-foot waves pounded New Zealand.

In Japan the destruction was great. The Japan National Broadcasting Corporation reported 96 persons dead, 75 missing and 655 injured. It said 4,000 houses were destroyed, 44,000 damaged and 1,900 boats destroyed. The newspaper Kohoku Shimpo reported 88,000 homeless in northern Honshu.

New Zealand Coast Pounded 18 Hours

New Zealand's harbor installations were hard hit by 10-foot waves which pounded the east coast for 18 hours. Hundreds of small boats disappeared without a trace and harbors were wrecked and may not be in operation for weeks.

The 3,000-ton cargo ship Crusader was grounded on an reef near Littleton Harbor when the tide level suddenly dropped 10 feet between waves.

Some of the effects in New Zealand were freakish. Hundreds of eels were left floundering in the fields.

Delayed reports from the Philippines said giant waves hit the east coast of the islands, causing widespread damage and panic.

A government warning that permitted many coastal residents to move out of their homes in advance of the waves was credited with saving many lives, but some fishermen were caught putting out to sea in the early morning.

The walls of water smashed with greatest fury Monday into Hawaii, particularly the port city of Hilo.

Officials today listed 33 persons known dead and 27 missing in the area where 159 were killed by a tidal wave that struck without warning in 1946.

Five killer waves, three to eight feet high, punched inland as much as a mile, sweeping whole blocks of buildings off their foundations in the Waialake district.

Officials said a seven-block strip along Namehameha Avenue was "a staggering picture of devastation. Hundreds of businesses have been wiped out. Some big buildings have been flattened and others lurch at crazy angles over the street."

On the main island of Oahu, waves swept across Maunaloa Beach in Honolulu, forcing tourists into upper floors of resort hotels.

Tidal waves up to five feet high lashed the California coast Monday, beaching boats and damaging dock facilities from San Diego to the Oregon border.

Damage was estimated at one million dollars in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area, where surging water ripped 60 yachts from their moorings.

In Alaska, 12 waves up to 15 feet high struck Montague Island.

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—A new series of earthquakes sent high sections of Chile Island off the Chilean coast sliding toward the sea today, carrying with them many of the refugees who had fled there from Ancud.

The new shocks were occurring every 10 minutes.

Ancud, a town of about 8,000 persons, was one of the places hit hardest in the series of earthquakes, tidal waves and floods which devastated southern Chile and may have killed thousands of persons. It is 800 miles below Santiago.

Reports from Ancud today said the sharp series of earthquakes was sending the high ground sliding into the sea, endangering refugees who have huddled in the open without food or shelter since the quakes began last weekend.

TOLL "THOUSANDS"
New reports of devastation in the south Chile earthquakes brought fears in official circles today the death toll would soar into the thousands.

Already a shortage of food and water and the threat of

SURGE FELT IN VICTORIA

The awesome force of the tidal wave generated off the coast of Chile was felt Monday at Victoria, about 7,000 miles away, in a series of tidal surges that broke up log booms in the Selkirk water of the Gorge, above Point Ellice Bridge.

discussions in such a manner as will enable it to pave the way to an early resumption of international negotiation in this council, within the United Nations, or outside.

Corea was given much of the credit for a compromise resolution, sponsored by Ceylon, Argentina, Ecuador and Tunisia, which circulated after the council adjourned Monday night. It calls for an early resumption of East-West negotiations on disarmament and other big issues.

The four smaller members of the council urged the U.S., Russia, Britain and France—"to resume discussions as soon as possible" and to avail themselves of the assistance of the Security Council and other appropriate UN organs.

STAND HOPELESS

Diplomats said there is virtually no chance of Gromyko's resolution, asking the council to condemn the incursions of U.S. aircraft into other states as aggressive acts, getting the necessary seven votes for approval.

Gromyko made a special appeal to the smaller countries to resist violation of their sovereignty by U.S. aerial incursion, saying the Soviet Union could protect itself but they could not.

Lodge named a dozen Russian spies convicted in the U.S. and said that at least 360 have been convicted in Free World courts since the death of Stalin in 1953. Russia maintained "thousands of spies and subversive agents" in the non-Communist world.

The U.S. delegate quoted Eisenhower's words that the spy flights had been discontinued—before Eisenhower went to Paris—and "are not to be resumed." Then Lodge added:

"I am authorized to say that the United States is prepared to negotiate an open skies treaty with the Soviet Union, which would have continued force and effect and which would obviate forever the necessity of such measures of self-protection."

Accidents Take 5 Lives On Long Holiday Weekend

By Canadian Press

Accidents connected with holiday-weekend activities claimed five lives in British Columbia, a Canadian Press survey shows.

Of the fatalities reported by midnight PDT Monday, when the survey period closed, four were drownings and another occurred in a highway accident.

Two Burnaby men, Dan Zoney, 17, and Ralph N. Neyhart, 34, were drowned Friday when their outboard fishing boat was suddenly swamped 10 miles northwest of Sechart.

At Vernon, Louis Burgey, 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Burgey, was drowned Monday when he fell into a creek near his home.

A 25-year-old skindiver, Carl Heinz Engler, was drowned in 160 feet of water in a lake near Invermere Monday, and at Edgewater, Marvin Johnson, 16, was fatally injured Monday night when the car he was driving careened off the highway north of his home.

LOST BOYS SAFE
VANDERHOOF—Three teen-aged boys who had been reported drowned last Thursday were found alive and unharmed Saturday night in a wooded area near this central British Columbia village.

The boys, all of Vanderhoof, had been presumed drowned after their make-shift boat was found capsized in the flood-swollen Nechako River here.

CONVICTED AGAIN

CRANBROOK—Larry Popoff, 26, of Brilliant, B.C., was convicted Saturday for the second time on a charge of murder and sentenced to hang Aug. 23. His counsel said an appeal definitely will be launched.

Charged in the Oct. 5, 1958, beating death of Clarence Douglas Garrett of Castlegar, Popoff was convicted in Nelson last May 25 and sentenced to hang.

BOXCAR LOOTED

VANCOUVER—A CPR patrolman became suspicious when he realized that two men in working clothes were unloading a boxcar during the Victoria Day holiday.

One man ran away when the patrolman stopped to question them. The other was arrested and $3,000 worth of loot was recovered including $2,500 in fur coats. Richard

J. Wilks has been charged with theft.

LAG IN MUSEUMS

PENTICTON—Provincial archivist Willard Ireland, of Victoria, told delegates attending the annual meeting of the British Columbia Historical Association, Sunday, that the province is 10 to 15 years behind the United States in museum development. "But we are making great progress," he said.

KINSMEN ELECT CHIEF

WEST VANCOUVER—Tommy Norton, of Prince George, was elected governor of British Columbia's 3,500 Kinsmen here Monday. He succeeds J. D. Turner, of Burnaby.

More than 1,000 delegates from most districts in the province attended the organization's annual convention.

UNKNOWN HEROINE

KAMLOOPS—An unidentified teen-aged girl saved the life of a powerboat operator during the weekend when a 14-foot boat flipped over and sank in the Thompson River. Buster Bowie and a teen-aged boy were thrown into the water. The boy swam to shore but Bowie was in danger of drowning until the girl swam to his rescue and helped him cling to the overturned boat until rescuers came.

Nazi Hunted 15 Years Captured by Israelis

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—A Polish Jew who vowed to avenge the gas-chamber murder of his entire family led Israeli intelligence agents to the capture of Adolph Eichmann, the Nazi held responsible for the death of 6,000,000 Jews, an informant said here today.

Premier David Ben-Gurion rocked Israel Monday when he announced in Parliament that Eichmann had been arrested and is being held in Israel. The 53-year-old "greatest living enemy of the Jewish people" will stand trail here for war crimes.

An unnamed Polish Jew was reported to have tipped off Israeli agents of Eichmann's whereabouts and ended their relentless 15-year hunt through dozens of countries in three continents.

The Pole, one of the few survivors of the Drohowitz Ghetto in Galicia, swore at the end of the war to avenge the death of his family and the mass murder of European Jewry.

He began his work in Vienna by collecting evidence against Nazi war criminals, the source said.

Fourteen months ago he paid his first visit to Israel and came here again earlier this year, when he is believed to have tipped off Israeli intelligence about Eichmann's hideout.

Eichmann's whereabouts today were as secret as they had been for the last 15 years. Israeli authorities hid him away and took no chances of lynching attempts. Officials promised an early trial.

The government maintain official secrecy about how and where Eichmann was seized and the means by which he was brought to an Israeli prison.

Unconfirmed reports said he had been in the Persian Gulf, a "secret" of Israeli Jewish protectorate.

MASS MURDERS
He was remanded Monday for 14 days by a magistrate in Jaffa who told Eichmann "you are accused of causing the death of millions of Jews in Germany and occupied territories in the years 1938-1945."

Eichmann stood to attention as he was addressed. In answer to a query he replied "I am Eichmann."

No formal charge was laid, although he is held for war crimes, which call for the death penalty.

He is also wanted in West Germany for war crimes. But Israeli officials pointed out that Israel has no extradition agreement with West Germany.

Eichmann submitted to Gestapo chief Heinrich Himmler in 1938 his proposal to "settle the Jewish problem." Part of his attempted solution were the gas chambers of Germany, Poland, Austria, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

In most Israeli history books Eichmann is described as the most bloodthirsty of all the Nazi leaders.

Palestine-born, Eichmann speaks fluent Hebrew. He attended Jewish schools and later went to school in Germany.

He returned to Palestine in 1936 under Hitler's orders, started an Arab uprising and supervised arms supplies to the Arabs.

The following year he went back to Germany as head of the "Jewish department" of the Gestapo in Berlin.

Debate Asked On Build-Up To Summit

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller called Monday for a national debate on "the general illusion leading to the summit conference" and on United States actions immediately prior to the Big Four meeting in Paris.

Rockefeller, still considered by some a possible contender for the Republican presidential nomination, did not mention specifically the U-2 spy plane downed over Russia May 1, or the United States' admission that the plane was on an espionage flight.

But he said "some aspects of American conduct, immediately prior to the conference, demand examination of their purpose and prudence."

Rockefeller said in a 1,000-word statement that citizens and parties must examine the build-up to the summit and the causes of its collapse without falling into "a clash of absurd partisan absolutes."

Soviets' Spy Protest 'Synthetic' Says Dief

WOLFEVILLE, N.S. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday night that Russia's condemnation of the United States for spying "is composed of words of synthetic horror and hypocritical condemnation when read in conjunction with the widespread extent of Soviet espionage."

SOCIALISTS WARN U.S. CHIEF TO CANCEL JAPAN TRIP

Ike Gets Threat of Mobbing

TOKYO (UPI)—The opposition Socialists warned President Eisenhower today not to come here next month and made it clear that he may be mobbed if he does so.

A rightwing independent joined the leftists in urging the president to cancel his visit.

The warnings were issued shortly before new demonstrations protesting the U.S.-Japanese security treaty got underway outside the national capital.

About 4,000 persons, most of them socialists or communists, took part in today's protest. There was no violence.

A group of 300 professors and instructors from various Tokyo universities led the parade, and 100 actors and actresses from the city's theatres took part.

Leaders of the socialist campaign against the security treaty said previously that they "couldn't guarantee" Eisenhower's safety if he comes here against their wishes.

Socialist Rep. Susumu Kagata said the "National People's Council against the Security Treaty" plans a "massive anti-Eisenhower demonstration" if the president comes here June 19 as planned.

Other socialist spokesmen, while disclaiming knowledge of specific plans, said "several organizations and groups might demonstrate against him."

Automation, Economics Board Urged by Liberals

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Paul Martin, charging the government with failure to give economic leadership to the country, said Monday serious dangers threaten the Canadian economy which must be assessed in mapping a course for the future.

The Liberal MP for Essex East, leading off for his party with a non-confidence motion in a Commons supply debate, proposed that a national advisory board on economic development and automation be established to devise policies for high and stable income and employment.

A realistic assessment of the dangers ahead had been made by James Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, but his views apparently were repudiated by Finance Minister Fleming, he said.

Mr. Coyne wasn't alone in being less optimistic about the Canadian economy, Mr. Martin said. Warnings of re-

Employment Talk Stings Fleming

Mr. Martin's extensive references to unemployment brought protests from Mr. Fleming who argued they were out of order since the Commons previously debated unemployment this session.

However, Speaker Roland Milchener accepted Mr. Martin's explanation that he was laying the groundwork for his motion.

Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East), supporting Mr. Martin's amendment, said far too little attention has been paid to implications of automation.

United Grain Growers Limited said Monday it doubts whether the Canadian Wheat Board can enforce the application of its grain-delivery quotas by independent feed mills on the Prairies.

Prove it to yourself! Dramatic test proves Plymouth gives you more miles per gallon!

Others talk gas savings, but Plymouth lets you see it. At your dealer's now—the PLYMOUTH PROVE-IT-YOURSELF ECONOMY DRIVE lets you take the wheel and see for yourself exactly the mileage you get from Plymouth's revolutionary new 30-D Economy Six. Don't miss it!

Right now's the time to get in on the most unusual test of gas economy ever devised. No special test track . . . no special test conditions . . . no special test driver! Just you in your Plymouth dealer's regular full-size Plymouth. Here's how it works:

Mounted on one side of a Solid Plymouth is a jar equipped with metering devices which allow it to feed a measured amount of gas directly to the car. You turn a control and the Plymouth is powered by the gas from this Economy Meter.

Then you drive. That's all. Just drive in your usual fashion, through normal traffic. When the gas in the jar has been used, flick the control back and the normal supply of fuel is resumed. Then check the mileage reading on the speedometer. See for yourself the mileage you got on just a small amount of fuel. Simple, fair—and dramatic proof of the solid gas economy engineered into the Solid Plymouth for 1960. Give it a try at your Plymouth dealer's!

The Lost Industries

THE FISHERIES COUNCIL OF Canada urges the Canadian people to eat more fish and thus nourish both themselves and the fishing industry. To this advice the Vancouver Province replies that the restaurants of Canada don't know how to cook fish properly and therefore not much of it is eaten.

There may be room for improvement in the cuisine of restaurants and private homes when Canada, a vast producer of fish, eats much less of it than many maritime nations. But, as shown by figures in Parliament recently, our fishing industry cannot hope to prosper on the limited Canadian market, however it may be expanded by better cooking. Even more than wheat, Canadian fish is dependent on the outside world for markets. And clearly the world is not prepared to pay the price for some of our fish that the fishing industry asks.

It is commonly said, and commonly denied by some people, that Canada is pricing itself out of various markets. But no one can deny that the herring and whaling industries of British Columbia, once the source of considerable employment, have priced themselves out of the market. Both these industries are closed solely because they could not sell their products at the going cost of production.

The whaling industry, which used to prosper for the benefit of its owners and workers, has not opened this year since the operators realized that, with existing wages and costs, they would lose money. The wage scales obtained by the workers have been set but they have no meaning when there is no work and hence no wages.

In the case of herring our fishing industry finds itself faced with competition from Peru where vast amounts of fish can be harvested cheaply to make various products like oil and meal, the same things formerly made from British Columbia herring.

The fishing off South America is so attractive economically, that our British Columbia fishing interests are operating there instead of operating off our own coast. We have priced an important segment of our industry into foreign waters.

It is no use to complain about the relatively low wages, costs and prices of South America. We could prevent the fish caught there from entering the Canadian market. We cannot prevent it entering the world market where most of our fish must be sold. As in the case of wheat, minerals and many other things, that situation is simply beyond our control.

We can sell our salmon because we happen to be one of the few nations whose waters produce salmon, a rare and valuable fish. We cannot sell herring and whales because other nations can produce them in abundance, more cheaply than we can. And if we are to sell them again we must somehow reduce our costs and prices.

But the collapse of the herring and whaling industries is only one aspect of the problems affecting our fish industry. Not only in British Columbia but on the Atlantic coast (where wages and costs are much lower) the Canadian fish industry is in a most unsatisfactory state because it must sell most of its output abroad and there must meet the keen competition of other fishing nations who are not in the least concerned with our standard of living.

Our fishing companies are dissatisfied with their profits, the fishermen with their incomes, and both sides of the industry engage in constant quarrels and frequent strikes on this coast. Even if they were in agreement, however, they could do nothing to alter the conditions of the world market. But by reducing their costs they might be able to sell more in it and employ more workers here.

Another Fine Community Job

ONCE AGAIN THE COMMUNITY is indebted to scores of men, women and children who devoted time and effort to produce the dazzling spectacle of a Victoria Day parade. This highlight of the holiday weekend was of usual proportions, and a record crowd turned out to show its appreciation.

The racing of various kinds, the games, the Indian festival, the Exhibition, the ever-popular Navy Day and other events combined to make this one of the best holidays in many a year. The increasing participation of young folk, and the entries of bands and exhibits from the United States added a particularly welcome note. It was especially interesting to see participation by the Kuper Island boys band and the excellently costumed Sun Dancers.

These are days when this sort of festivity provides a needed relief from the tense international situation and other problems of our times. To all who helped make it possible: the thanks of Greater Victoria.

The Divided Democrats

A PART FROM MUCH MORE important consequences elsewhere, the breakdown at the Summit apparently has split the Democratic Party of the United States.

Its chief legislator, Senator Lyndon Johnson, has rushed to the support of a Republican President in a patriotic, non-partisan spirit. Its titular leader and most famous statesman, Mr. Adlai Stevenson, has denounced the President for tragic bungling and evidently intends to pursue this criticism without mercy.

The most serious statement in Mr. Stevenson's indictment is that there can be little hope of successful negotiations with Russia under a Republican administration. Yet negotiations, he says, are "vital to our survival."

Also, Mr. Stevenson says (and so does Mr. Walter Lippman) that the Eisenhower Government has "acutely embarrassed our allies and endangered our bases."

This fear may be exaggerated but the effect of recent American policy certainly will be felt in some small, weak countries where Mr. Khrushchev's threats of retaliation will be heard with alarm. The clumsy contradictions of official American statements about espionage will be damaging to the West also in neutral countries.

A price of some sort must be paid for these mistakes but it may be less than Mr. Stevenson fears. If the United States has placed itself in a difficult position for the moment, Mr. Khrushchev may well have spoiled his propaganda position by overdoing his hysterics, as Mr. Diefenbaker believes.

However that may turn out, it is simply unrealistic to suppose that foreign policy can be kept out of the United States election. As Mr. Stevenson says, there must be a national unity in a great crisis but this will not prevent opposition criticism of the Government's methods, and there can be no political issue more important at this time than the conduct of foreign policy.

In criticizing the Government and staking out the foreign policy issue while other Democrats are silent, Mr. Stevenson seems to be seeking his third presidential nomination as the one candidate able to deal with the crisis.

Changing the People's Attitude

ONE OF THE MOST DEPLORABLE aftermaths of the spy plane incident and consequent collapse of the Summit meeting is the deliberate campaign within the Soviet Union to persuade the people that Mr. Eisenhower, and the United States, are enemies.

Mr. Khrushchev's vilification can be turned on or off at will, apparently, but public opinion is a more slowly changing force. It now seems to be Kremlin policy to destroy the friendly feelings for America that had grown up among the people. Observers say that Mr. Eisenhower, if his visit had been carried out this summer without the recent fiasco, would have received an unprecedented welcome from the Russians. That receptive attitude is now being effectively wiped out.

This is the sort of mass hatred that was inculcated and used so effectively by Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin. It is a terrible weapon in a cold war since it so frequently prepares the way for a hot one.

If the process is persisted in, it will become a formidable threat to world peace and far transcend anything Mr. Khrushchev has done in merely postponing a conference of state heads.

LOOSE ENDS

The Honorable Marriage, Long Delayed

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

FOR the first time the Union Nationale of Quebec has entered a provincial election without its creator, the late Mr. Duplessis, and its old sure-fire weapon, the cry of provincial autonomy against a hostile, predatory federal Government in Ottawa. But the transformation of personalities from Mr. Duplessis, the man of war, to Premier Barrette, the man of peace, though dramatic, is only the outward symptom of a political transformation much more significant—concerning which a recent and little-noted debate in Parliament is revealing.

Hutchison

This debate said as clearly as such delicate things can be said that the Union Nationale has become nothing but the Conservative party in Quebec's provincial politics. To be sure, it always was, but under various disguises contrived by Mr. Duplessis, whose personal power required an outward look of independence and aloofness from federal politics. As Quebec's one indispensable man, he must appear to have no interest outside his own province, his own race and his own milieu.

BUT Mr. Barrette, long at odds with his former chief and seldom attending cabinet meetings in recent years, has abandoned all these pretences. A Conservative all his life by conviction and a member of the Union Nationale Government by accident, he now emerges as a candid lieutenant of the Diefenbaker Government, and with that Government's ardent blessing.

The blessing was formally bestowed on Mr. Barrette in Parliament by Mr. Leon Balcer, Solicitor General, senior Quebec minister in Mr. Diefenbaker's cabinet and a vigorous opponent of the Prime Minister when he was chosen party leader in 1956. (Mr. Balcer's changed view of the Prime Minister is a small but intriguing facet of the general transformation.)

THE federal Government's blessing, conferred on the Union Nationale

by Mr. Balcer, was unrestrained and included not only Mr. Barrette but his immediate predecessor, the late Mr. Paul Sauve and also Mr. Duplessis. All the leaders of the Union Nationale were equally blessed, though Mr. Barrette was singled out as "a very great premier."

"At this point," said Mr. Balcer, in discussing the new formula of federal university grants applied singly to Quebec, "I wish to pay a tribute to Messrs. Duplessis, Sauve and Barrette."

It was Mr. Duplessis, said Mr. Balcer, who had begun the negotiations leading to the settlement of the university issue. Mr. Sauve had merely followed "in the footsteps of his predecessor, whose thought he was only repeating."

It did not satisfy Mr. Balcer merely to credit this settlement to Mr. Duplessis.

"Thanks," Mr. Balcer said, "to Mr. Duplessis' energetic and bold policy, it (Quebec) has become a great provincial state and an industrial giant."

This posthumously the Duplessis phenomenon, often deplored in his lifetime, now becomes, in the Diefenbaker Government's final judgment the real creator of Quebec's greatness.

DURING Mr. Duplessis' one-man rule the Conservative party at Ottawa was happy to accept his underground support which proved decisive in 1958 by electing many Union Nationale candidates to Parliament as newly-revealed Conservatives. Until Mr. Duplessis' passing, however, this alliance between the federal Government and the Union was never openly admitted.

Now Mr. Balcer proclaims it in his glowing admiration of Messrs. Duplessis, Sauve and Barrette. Several pages of Hansard are sprinkled with this fulsome praise.

Undoubtedly the Union's support for Mr. Diefenbaker in the last federal election will be repaid by the federal Government, so far as it is able, in the approaching Quebec election. To win his own election a couple of years from now Mr. Diefenbaker must hold at least substantial support in Quebec. Mr. Barrette is the man chosen to deliver it, the only man available in any case. Therefore, his electoral victory in June is vital to the federal Government.

MR. BARRETTE is operating, however, in a climate never experienced, or allowed, by Mr. Duplessis so long as the national Government was Liberal. The war of provincial "autonomy" on which Mr. Duplessis built his repeated victories, is now replaced by the cooling of doves and the exchange of blessings.

Whether the Union Nationale can succeed as an ally and lieutenant of the federal Government when it was formerly an enemy is the most interesting question in the Quebec election.

While important enough in itself, the university settlement appears even more important politically as the catalyst of this transformation. And a remarkable catalyst it is.

For we now behold the Union Nationale accepting, in the new university formula, a larger interference with provincial authority than any suggested by the St. Laurent Government, which was always represented in Quebec as the deadly enemy of "autonomy."

BY the new formula Quebec apparently levies its own corporation tax to provide university grants, but the federal Government is given over-riding control of the tax.

For example, if the revenue thus derived exceeds the universities' needs, as specified at Ottawa, the margin must be returned to the federal treasury through a reduction in Quebec's federal subsidies.

Thus the transformation, in another aspect, finds the Liberal party at Ottawa denouncing the Diefenbaker Government for infringing Quebec's sovereign power by what it considers an unconstitutional measure.

Mr. Lesage, the provincial Liberal leader in Quebec, says of the new formula: "What a glaring breach of Quebec autonomy it is to let Ottawa itself set the amount of provincial taxes to be collected for provincial purposes!"

Whatever the merits of the university settlement may be, and whoever invented it, one fact is clear: The long, futile flirtation between the Union Nationale and the national Conservative party has ended in marriage, that honorable estate enthusiastically witnessed and joyfully announced, with peal of wedding bells, by Mr. Balcer.

FROM WASHINGTON

Mistakes Writ Large for All to See

THERE is a certain sour appreciation here of the latest Parisian joke which runs in its entirety: "Once upon a time there was an American diplomat."

Writ large for all the world to see, with sadness or with satisfaction, are the mistakes and confusions of American policy. But there can easily be too much emphasis on this point; self-criticism may injure future policy by forcing it to carry a burden of guilt. It is more useful to consider the new problems created by the failure of the Summit Conference than it is to prolong the weary lament over the past.

One of the first bold voices to speak out of the present confusion has been that of Chancellor Adenauer.

West Germany is bracing itself for a rough passage. Chancellor Adenauer suggested that the NATO Council, perhaps with ministers in attendance rather than the permanent officials, should give its precise and deliberate approval to Western policy.

Doubted Wisdom

Suddenly sensitive to Russian suspicions, American officials have doubted the wisdom of a declaration of policy that might be considered "provocative" by Moscow.

They are wrong. There is no more urgent task before the NATO community than to display its unity and its courage at this anxious hour. Anything less resolute would encourage Russian bluster and increase the dangers to peace.

A new declaration of unity does not imply approval of every aspect of American policy. It does mean that Russia's leaders are under notice to weigh carefully the consequences and hazards of all their threats. Whether in Chancellor Adenauer's form or in some other way this declaration cannot be long delayed, for it would be an element of stability in a dangerous situation.

The new game, as fascinating as it is inconclusive, involves elaborate guesswork about the struggle inside the Kremlin that may have forced Mr. Khrushchev to parade his arrogance in Paris. The exercise is really no more than a cloak of speculation over accuracy.

Stray Straws

Where so little that is definite can be known, what is the point of making an endless inventory of the inscrutable? A few stray straws can easily be twisted into conjecture, but the pretty pattern will merely amuse the idle and comfort the imaginative.

The judgment of experienced diplomats in Washington gives no sanction to the noisy theories now filling the papers.

They point out, in the first place, that there is no proof that Mr. Khrushchev has been defeated by a calculated challenge to his authority to speak for Russia. He may merely have changed his policy.

No Comfort

Secondly, they derive no comfort from the speculation about a revolt against Mr. Khrushchev, since the rebels, if they do exist, are clearly more hostile to the West than is Mr. Khrushchev, himself, and are more imperious and destructive in their methods.

Perhaps we have been wrong about Mr. Khrushchev. The man who ordered the massacres in Hungary could easily be capable of wrecking the Summit conference.

This diplomatic judgment, despite its harshness, is strangely comforting. For it is better to have a ruthless despot firmly in control than to degrade him to an unpredictable puppet swayed by yet more sinister forces lurking irresponsibly in the shadows.

OTTAWA:

Dangerous Proceeding

By GRANT DEXTER

THE Combines Investigation Act deals with two kinds of crime—first, illegal combines, mergers or monopolies and, second, efforts by manufacturers and dealers to control the prices at which their goods are sold to the public.

The amendments to the Act introduced in the House of Commons on May 6 by Hon. Davis Fulton, Minister of Justice, make many changes in the present provisions dealing with combines, mergers and monopolies.

It must never be forgotten that the Combines Investigation Act is perhaps the most controversial law in our statute books. The desire among business interests to escape from or to lessen competition by forming combines, mergers or monopolies, is very great.

These interests bitterly resent the restraints imposed by the law and time and again they have striven, with the aid of the best lawyers in the country, to have the statute impaired in whole or in part.

Fully aware of this peril, successive Liberal governments, that put forward the legislation and enforced it, have proceeded with great caution, relying heavily upon favorable judgments by the Privy Council and the Supreme Court of Canada.

Therefore to rewrite the Combines Investigation Act—as Mr. Fulton now proposes to do—is a very dangerous proceeding. The result of such a revision will not be clear until the courts have passed upon the revised law.

Law Enforcement

The present amendments, therefore, must be considered not only from the standpoint of what they may do to the enforcement of the law, but also, what they may do to the constitutional foundations on which it rests.

The first point concerns a change in the definition of combines, mergers and monopolies.

In the present Act, the definitions are all of a piece. Now, it is proposed to knock out the Combines Act definition of an illegal combine and substitute for it the definition from the Criminal Code. The definitions are not alike so that hereafter if this amendment carries there will be one definition for an illegal combine and another for illegal mergers and monopolies.

Generally, the Diefenbaker Government in this regard has made unsure and uncertain what was fixed and secure.

The amendments proceed to undermine the position of the Director of the Combines Branch. For the past twenty-five years, the Director, by statute, has been authorized to apply, officially, to the Minister of Justice for a special assistant in investigating a big case.

The purpose has been to engage a first class lawyer to be in at the start of a case so that he could take charge of the prosecution later on. Only in this way could the Combines Branch match the skill and detailed information of the counsel who act for the accused corporations.

To Parliament

Being authorized by statute to apply for this help, the application would be a matter of record. If a minister refused to approve, he would have to answer to Parliament and the country.

Now the right of the Director to ask officially for such assistance is withdrawn. The minister's power to frustrate an investigation and secretly, as it were, to weaken a prosecution is made unchallengeable. He is answerable to no one but himself.

Section 11 of the bill restricts the use of the tariff as a means of punishing combines or monopolies. If they unduly restrict competition and thereby enhance prices, the law hitherto has given the government power to remove any tariff which may protect them, thereby encouraging competition from abroad.

This power is now to be restricted by the insertion of the word "presently." Presumably what has been going on in the past is of no consequence. Only the immediate present will count. There is an apparently innocent provision in Section 12 of the bill which is regarded by experts here as certain to encourage the formation of combines, mergers and monopolies and frustrate the enforcement of the law.

Sought Amendment

For thirty years, business men who operate in the shadow of the law have sought an amendment which would enable them to make the merger or monopoly and then, if it was illegal, to escape without conviction and disgrace.

No Liberal government would sponsor such a change and even R. B. Bennett, when Prime Minister, refused to do so. Mr. Bennett, a distinguished lawyer, argued in the House of Commons that to do so would be to enable people to break the law with impunity.

The Diefenbaker Government now includes such a provision in the present amendments. Section 12 provides that the courts may issue a restraining order "without a conviction" where the offence has been completed.

The quotation is from the official explanatory notes in the bill. In effect, this means that people wishing to form illegal combines, mergers or monopolies, may do so, and, if caught, escape without conviction. They will now have everything to gain in the way of profiteering at the public expense and nothing to lose.

The penalty tends to become a slap on the wrist. No greater incentive to would-be creators of combines, mergers and monopolies is conceivable.

Still Hope

The Windsor Star

Witness the experience of a Windsor motorist whose car stalled in a down-pour late one recent night, leaving him helpless on a busy highway.

After dozens of late-model cars had passed by on the other side, a beat-up old pickup truck stopped and its driver, a typical teen-ager, offered his help. In short time, the stalled car had been pushed to a service station, the teen-ager driver had done some tinkering with the carburetor, and the motorist was on his way.

If this is the younger generation, thinks that motorist, there's hope for the human race.

YOUR HEALTH

Morning Depression

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

In the Journal of the Irish Medical Association, Dr. J. P. Fogarty points out so wisely that many persons in our civilization have brief spells of depression, most of which clear up in days or weeks or months without any psychiatric treatment. Unfortunately, in many cases, the real nature of the illness is not diagnosed because so few of us doctors were trained in college to recognize the early symptoms of a spell of melancholia.

As Dr. Fogarty says, one of the most typical signs of a depression is a feeling of distressing fatigue in the mornings, a fatigue which wears off during the day so that it may all be gone by 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Often the person feels toxic and without energy, and he may feel pain here and there in his body. He may be uncomfortable about his heart. He may find it almost impossible to get at his day's work, or even to read. He is likely to sit in silence, or she may have days when she is irritable, and when she scolds her poor innocent husband for hours at a time. Typical are spells in which the woman blames herself unfairly, and talks much of grievous sins. When asked what these sins were, she is unable to describe them. Often the woman loses all interest in home, husband, friends, and even her children. For a while, she may lose much weight. In the cases of both women and men, all interest in sex is likely to be lost.

When one of these depressed women comes into his office, an observant physician may note that she is slow in her speech, and slow in answering questions. If the doctor asks about a desire for suicide, the patient will usually admit that she has thought seriously of it.

It is helpful, diagnostically, to find that the patient went on a month's vacation and came back feeling, if anything, worse. It is very helpful, also, to find that one or more near relatives have had depressions, or have committed suicide.

Occasionally, a relative, in his depressions, will drink heavily with the hope of finding relief. If a spell of depression lasts long, a psychiatrist can give a few brief and now usually harmless electroshocks, shocks which are likely to bring the patient quickly out of the attack.

Mr. F. J. Schwaemmle, of the Delta Air Lines, tells me that for years his company has been working with the Southern eye bank in New Orleans and other eye banks, transporting without cost eyes that, right after death, have been removed, and which will be used for transplantation onto the cloudy corneas of some blind people. The cornea is the little clear window in the front of the eye. Sometimes, when it has been ulcerated or injured in some way, it becomes frosted, and then the person is blind.

If a piece of cornea from a man who has just died can be transplanted successfully, sight may return. Obviously, since there are so many causes of blindness due to injury to the retina or seeing part of the eyes as well as to the nervous system back of the eye, it is only a certain fraction of blind people who can be helped with a corneal transplant.

I happen to know Dr. Ramon Castroviejo of New York City who, during the year in which he worked in the research laboratories at the Mayo Clinic, kept constantly transplanting corneas from one rabbit to another, thereby working out the details of this extremely ticklish operation.

Where would thousands of blind people be today if it hadn't been for the work done on all those rabbits? Doubtless, after operation they suffered some discomfort, but because of their service to humanity, today thousands of people who once were blind can see.

I was just reading of a woman, born blind, who later married and had children. She had never seen her husband or her children. Then one day an ophthalmologist transplanted corneas onto her blind eyes and she saw her loved ones!

HOME GARDEN

Protect Those Plants!

Already reports are filtering in about tomato plants being damaged by the low night temperatures, even to the total loss of plants in some low-lying areas which have suffered a light frost around sunrise.

Both the damage and the losses can be prevented by using any material close at hand as plant protectors.

Ordinary clay flower pots and glass preserving jars have given genuine service over the years as covers for tender plants.

Cardboard cartons are equally effective when placed over plants and half-gallon milk cartons have been used where the spread of foliage is not too great.

SACKS

Where the staking varieties of tomato are being grown, and the stakes are already in place (as they should be), some other type of protection must be devised, and it is usually attached to the stakes.

Sacks, for instance, are made into tents over the plants, and fastened to the stakes with a plant tie, or a length of burlap may be placed each side of the row of plants and tied to the stakes at each end.

A complete section of newspaper, usually three or four sheets, can be opened out and the stakes pushed through at the fold, so that a tent is formed when the paper is lowered to the plants.

The purpose of these protective coverings is to prevent rapid loss of heat from the soil on clear nights, and anything which will form a cover between soil and sky is effective.

All covering should be removed as early as possible in the morning so that the plants are not softened by trapped heat.

SENATE ROW

'Appeaser' Label Irks Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem., Mass.), strode into the Senate Monday night and told a Republican critic: "I do not have to purge myself of the suspicion of being an appeaser."

Kennedy, pace-setting candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, arrived in the chamber several hours after the Senate's Democrats and Republicans clashed angrily over a proposal by Senator Hugh Scott (Rep., Pa.), that Adlai Stevenson and Kennedy be asked whether they are "appeasers."

Scott had said Kennedy and Stevenson should be summoned before congressional investigators "to relieve themselves of the gross suspicion of appeasement" growing out of their criticisms of the Eisenhower administration's policies leading up to the Paris Summit conference collapse last week.

Kennedy told Scott: "I do not have to purge myself of the suspicion of being an appeaser. I do not advocate a policy that would weaken the United States. I'm sure the senator (Scott) can't believe I'm an appeaser."

Nasser Takes Over Papers

CAIRO (UPI) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser today decreed what in effect was the nationalization of all major newspapers in the United Arab Republic.

Cairo's top morning dailies, Al-Ahram and Al-Akhbar, were immediately affected by the surprise decree, as were the weekly Rose El Youssef and the Dar Al Hilal chain of weeklies.

Ownership of these papers was transferred to the national union, the nation's one political organization. Former owners were to be compensated in the form of state bonds payable in 20 years at 3 per cent interest.

The government said that under the "Social Democratic Co-operative Society" embraced by the UAR "The people's ownership of the means of social political guidance is inevitable."

The decree differed from formal nationalization in the sense that the papers will be administered by a political organization rather than the government itself.

Divorce Laws to Stand—
Filibuster to Continue

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — A highly-played source says the government intends neither to break the current CCF filibuster in the Commons against parliamentary divorce bills nor to propose any new way of dealing with them.

After considering all possible alternatives, the government has decided it should do nothing to make it any easier for parliament to deal with individual cases coming to it from those provinces which do not have divorce courts, Quebec and Newfoundland.

Any other system, the government is convinced, would tend to make divorces easier in those provinces which, by long-standing practice and deep religious conviction, refuse to recognize divorce.

The source said that this conviction is supported not only by the political leaders of those provinces, but by the church leaders of more than one denomination.

More than 300 divorce bills now await action in the Commons. Time for discussing them is limited to one hour on Tuesdays and Fridays. The two bills passed last Friday during the private bills period were only the sixth and seventh to get through the CCF blockade since March 31.

The CCF campaign to force the Commons into finding some other way of handling divorce bills is a long-standing one.

The late J. S. Woodsworth, founder of the CCF Party, almost single-handedly forced Ontario into establishing divorce courts in the 1930s by similar blockading tactics.

Stanley Knowles, former CCF member for Winnipeg North Centre and whip of the CCF group, now vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, presented the Commons with what seemed to be the most workable solution.

It was to transfer the divorce cases to the Exchequer Court of Canada, sitting in Ottawa. After the court had heard the cases under regular judicial rules, Parliament would pass the enabling acts to dissolve the marriages.

The plan was considered but never adopted by the former Liberal government of Prime Minister St. Laurent. The Diefenbaker government has considered the plan afresh, but has been convinced it would be unacceptable to the churches, the informed source said.

At present, divorce actions are initiated by petition to Parliament by the aggrieved party. The Senate divorce committee — broken into several subcommittees to handle the load of cases — hears evidence under rules almost as strict as regular court rules. Bills passed by the Senate based on the petitions are sent to the Commons for concurrence.

Until the CCF started its filibuster, Commons approval was routine. Divorce bills were handled en bloc, dozens being approved in a matter of minutes or even seconds.

FINE RIDERS, SUPERB HORSES

1,000 Applaud Riding Academy Fast-Paced Show

By JOHN MIKA

Spectacular jumping and graceful equitation abounded at the 30th annual open horse show presented by Victoria Riding Academy on its grounds Monday.

Applause broke out frequently from the crowd of about 1,000 persons when rider after rider brought out the best in some superb horses.

A record 190 entries, from Island and mainland points, view for the honors in 17 event judged by Eldon J. Fairbanks of Pasadena, Calif.

The sounds of horses hooves drumming the turf combined with the smell of sweat and new-grown grass and the sight of a picturesque but difficult series of log and gate obstacles on the new jumping course to give the assembled horse lovers a delightful holiday weekend meet.

Three Big Wins for Fen's Folly

Three times Fen's Folly, owned and ridden by Jean Dunbar, won first prizes, chalking up victories in the open hunter, maiden jumping and one of three show hack events.

Close behind it came four other horses that won two events each in strongly-contested events.

Simba, owned by Mr. and Mrs. D. Pontious and ridden by Ed Lister of Duncan, took firsts in the difficult six bar jumping event and the working hunter.

Nechako, owned and ridden by Judy Bone, won two show hack classes. Hindu Punch, owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. Donaldson and ridden by Pat

Donaldson and her mother, won the novice jumping and green conformation hunter events.

Alkahira, a Haney entry owned and ridden by Mrs. A. Dean, placed first in the colorful Arabian costume class and also won one of the show hack events.

The western classes were led by Dark Moon, ridden by A. J. Steel, in the western working event, and Whiffenspool, ridden by Doug Reid, Vancouver, in the western pleasure event.

The Victoria team made up of Miss Dunbar, Miss L. McCaul and Fred Ball, riding Trader, Sir Robert and Seven Up, respectively, won the team jumping event.

Spectators Liked Faster Pace

Mayor Percy Scurrell officially opened the show. The Anacortes High School Band played several selections.

Introduction of a separate jumping course, supplementing the show ring to provide a fast-paced sequence of classes found immediate favor with spectators.

But the record list of entries still had to be handled in morning and afternoon sessions.

Heavy entries also were re-

BENNETT IN U.K. TO SEE INVESTORS

Busy 2 Weeks for Premier

LONDON (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia arrived in London today for a two-week visit to Britain during which he will meet investment dealers and attend a round of formal engagements.

Travelling with the premier are J. V. Fisher, the government's economic adviser; G. S. Bryson, deputy finance minister, and G. D. Ekman, executive assistant to the premier.

The group is to attend a luncheon Wednesday given by the merchant banking firm of Brown, Shipley & Company, Ltd., and in the evening a dinner given by the mayor of Westminster.

Thursday they will attend a luncheon of the council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain.

They will inspect various housing and industrial developments Friday and Saturday and tour the new London-Birmingham Motorway.

The following day they will attend the Captain George Vancouver annual commemoration service at Petersham, Surrey, a luncheon given by the mayor of Richmond, and will visit the British Columbia flagpole in London's Kew Gardens and the totem pole in Windsor Great Park.

Next Monday and Wednesday the group will have luncheon and dinner meetings with the investment firm of Booker Brothers, McConnell & Company, Ltd. Tuesday they will tour London's port facilities.

Before leaving for New York June 9, they will attend a luncheon given by the Institute of Directors.

Between these engagements, Premier Bennett and his advisers will meet informally with various groups of British industrialists and financial experts.

Use the Naran Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy; no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

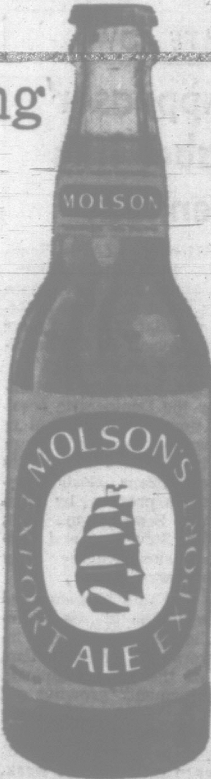

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Adv.

Three jobs that truck men do best —

Building Trucks...

The men who engineer International Trucks are their own severest critics. They put trucks through unbelievable 'torture tests' that are far more severe than conditions any truck will meet on the job. Every component is designed specifically for trucks — and carefully matched for balanced truck engineering. Because they are built by truck men, International Trucks are built to work and built to last.

Selling Trucks...

There's no place for guesswork when you choose a truck. The wrong rating, engine, transmission or axle can lead to high costs, frequent breakdowns and early truck failure. What's the solution? Talk to International truck men! They have the training to size up your loads, speeds, routes and terrain — and because they offer Canada's most complete line of trucks, you can be sure of getting the right truck for your job.

Servicing Trucks...

Because International personnel service trucks day-in and day-out, they do it efficiently, with no guesswork or waste motions. They have the proper truck servicing equipment—and all parts are immediately available to reduce costly downtime. You're in safe hands when you bring your trucks to truck men for servicing. Your trucks get back on the job faster—and stay on the job longer!

Barry Makes Good Bid For 'Iron Man' Rating

Barry Menzies doesn't look like an iron man, but he does his share.

Menzies, slightly on the slender side, toiled 13 innings on the Eagles mound at Royal Athletic Park Monday to pick up two Senior Amateur Baseball League wins over Olson Motors.

The first game, which took four innings, was a completion of an earlier 4-4 tie that was called in the seventh frame. Don Rasmussen and Don Bell eventually hit singles in the top of the 11th to send home two runs, ruining a good pitching performance by Don MacIntosh and giving Eagles a 6-4 win.

the bottom of the ninth in like an iron man, but he does his share.

While he gave up five hits in his first four-inning stint, Menzies only allowed four hits throughout the second game. The one Olson run was unearned.

EVCOES FIND SPACE FOR ONE MORE TROPHY

Evcoes splashed the finishing touches onto a glossy record Saturday as the Victoria and District Football League closed the doors on another soccer season.

League champions and Province Cup finalists, Evcoes added another trophy to a well-stocked mantle by defeating Brodies 1-0 in the Price Cup final.

Tim Walker, taking a pass from Ced Robb, scored the lone goal in a game highlighted by the goal-tending antics of Evcoes' Al Davies and Brian Lindsay of Brodies.

Jokers Tangle With Tugmen

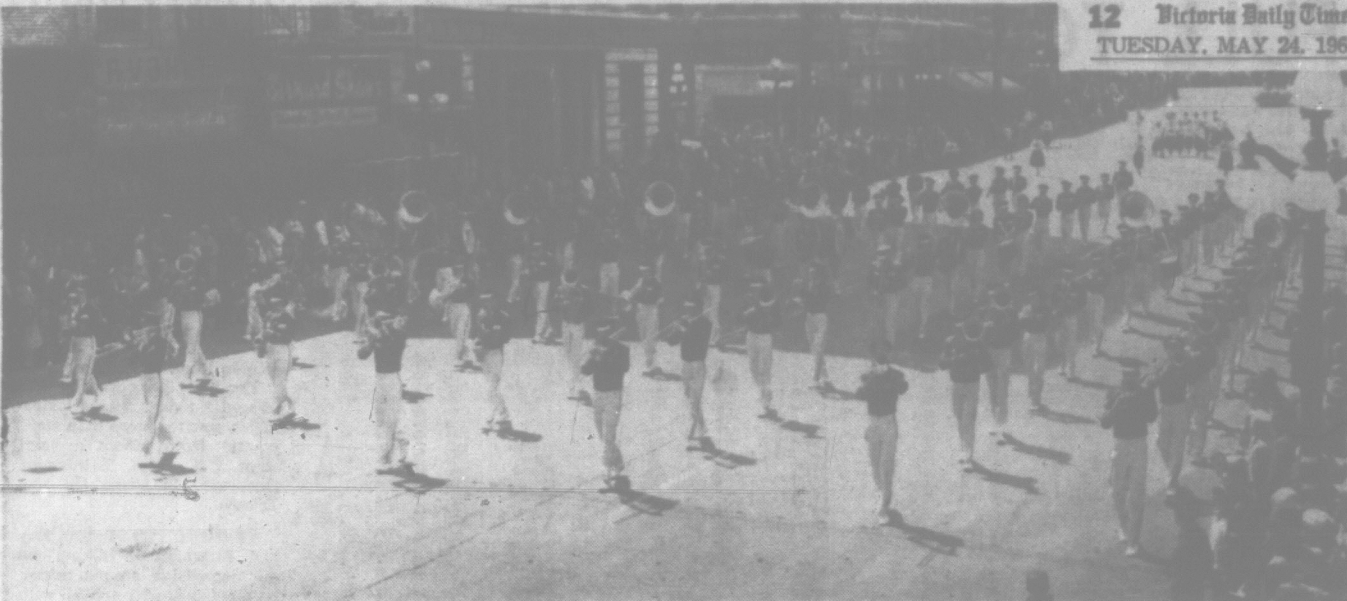

Jokers, who tied Nanaimo 7-7 at Stevenson Park Sunday, will return for another Senior "B" Lacrosse League game against Foul Bay Tugmen tonight at 6:30.

On Thursday Foul Bay will play Nanaimo at Nanaimo, while Jokers will tangle with Junior Shamrocks in an exhibition game, also at 6:30 p.m.

MR. AND MRS. VICTORIA, THIS IS YOUR QUEEN. Dark-haired Sherrin Molyard, chosen Saturday night from a group of 10 lovelies at the Junior Chamber of Commerce Fair, and crowned at a ceremony

Sunday at the Legislative Buildings, reigned over all festivities Monday. The 18-year-old dental nurse will represent Victoria at the Pacific National Exhibition in August which could lead to the Miss Canada title.

VISITING SCHOOL BANDS from Washington helped make Victoria Day parade. Particularly outstanding in performance, musically and at the march was the 110-piece Bellingham High School Band, which also had a 20-member drill corps. Bands in parade performed at various other Victoria Day weekend events adding to the color of the festivities with their bright uniforms.

It Was Gay, Colorful Weekend As Victoria Marked 'Her Day'

Cheerful, noisy and eager for fun, Victorians ebbed and flowed to a series of sports and spectacles during the annual Victoria Day weekend.

Bad weather that had worried the city for the past week cleared up and sunshine brought thousands out in a carnival mood to the events, highlighted by the annual parade Monday.

Visiting bands, drill teams, and floats poured into the city from Vancouver, Seattle, Bellingham and Port Angeles while many Vancouver Island centres sent representatives.

Focal point of the weekend was the annual parade but it only started the day's entertainment which included an Indian festival, world refugee year pageant at Hatley Park and Victoria Riding Academy horse show.

Music was provided in the afternoon by the Hometowners in a concert at Beacon Hill Park. In the evening the musical fantasy "Brigadoon" opened at the Royal theatre.

Many were tired after three days of sights and sounds but few would deny it was fun.

EVERYBODY GETS A KICK out of the high-kicking majorettes who kept up a lively beat throughout the Victoria Day parade. This young miss was one of a group from Anacortes High School in Washington who caught the eye of spectators. There were baton-twirlers, big and small, with many of the numerous bands in the procession.

GAUDY BURNUSES and robes flowed in the wake of these speeding Arabian horses and their costumed riders as the sawdust ring of Victoria Riding Academy magically turned into desert sand for one of the colorful shows of the holiday weekend. About 1,000 persons watched Mrs. Anne Dean of Haney, mounted on Alkahira, (left) win this sparkling event at the 30th annual horse show Monday.

AS THE TEMPERATURE ROSE during Victoria Day weekend so did crowd figures, making the three-day holiday probably the biggest in its history.

Estimates of attendance at the parade Monday jumped 10,000 from last year to 75,000 and other events had similar increases.

After a slow start Saturday when a disappointing crowd of some 300 watched a baseball double-header at Royal Athletic Park, Victorians began to get in the holiday mood.

Over 3,000 speedboat fans flocked to Elk Lake Sunday for a regatta and huge crowds watched Indians perform traditional dances at Maple Bank.

Motorbike enthusiasts spent the afternoon at old Colwood race track where the Victoria Motorcycle Club held a scrambles meet.

As the day wore on over 1,000 people attended ceremonies outside the legislative buildings as Mayor Percy Scourah crowned Sherrin Molyard Miss Victoria, 1960 (See picture above).

GIRLS, GIRLS, GIRLS—the prettiest of the land were on display as the "Mardi Gras" spirit of Victoria Day weekend prevailed. At the Vancouver Island Indian Festival at Maple Bank Park, Esquimalt, these six maidens competed for the title of

JUDGES OF THE VICTORIA DAY PARADE had a difficult time choosing the best floats but eventually decided that the Western Square Dance

Association merited first in the societies and organizations category. In the centre is the Pacific National Exhibition entry which won the best out-of-town award. At right is the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association float which received third prize in the commercial category. Over 200 entries passed the saluting base, including guns and trucks of the armed services, platoons of marching men, and dozens of clowns.

Mayor's Kiss Packs Wallop

By MICHAEL ROSE

Dewy eyes and humor were all mixed up in ceremonies Sunday when 18-year-old Sherrin Molyard was crowned Miss Victoria, 1960.

The raven-haired dental nurse smiled at Mayor Percy Scurrah's attempts to set the purple crown on her head and grew misty-eyed as 1959 queen Vivi Petersen said her smile would be her fortune.

The crowning took place at 3 p.m. on the Legislative Building steps before a crowd of well over 1,000.

Civic and provincial government representatives welcomed the new queen and princesses, Elaine Hiscock and Mona McConnell, as they came up the steps lined by members of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team.

Master of ceremonies Hugh Curtis introduced guests who included Mayor and Mrs. Percy Scurrah, Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele, Saanich Reeve George Chatterton and Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch, and their wives.

HE ENJOYS IT

No one present could dispute the fact Mayor Scurrah certainly enjoys parts of his job.

"This is a great tribute to her," he said, welcoming the queen, "and I am sure she will be a very gracious representative of our city during the many appearances she will make during the coming year."

OOPS!

The mayor then took the crown and gingerly balanced it on top of Miss Molyard's head, where it stayed until he tried to kiss her.

The crown fell and ex-queen Vivi retrieved it for another try.

This time it was put on backwards. At least five people assisted before the crown was firmly seated. Mayor Scurrah then kissed the new queen, this time with less vigor.

"You see now why I like to be mayor," said Mr. Scurrah, amid cheers.

"WONDERFUL"

In her abdication speech, addressed personally to Miss Molyard, Vivi Petersen said she was not sad about turning over the title but welcomed her successor to the post "that has brought me so many wonderful moments."

Guests at the ceremony included May queens from surrounding districts.

They were: Belmont May Queen Elaine Hassel and Princesses Lynn Vessey and Valerie Butler; Esquimalt Queen Sandra Smith and Princesses Linda Bowbyes and Sharyn Bishop; and Luxton Fair Queen Andrea Williams with attendant Maureen Forsy.

'VICTORIA GIRLS MARRYING TOO YOUNG'

No Wedding Bells for Vivi

Former Miss Victoria Vivi Petersen was wearing a ring Saturday but it was a black diamond, not white, and she isn't engaged.

Vivi attended opening ceremonies of the new semi-professional Northwest Baseball League at Royal Athletic Park.

Interviewed after the ceremony, she said she'd be single for some time to come.

"Marriage is far away," said the 20-year-old model, "I want to see and do so much before I settle down."

"Too many girls in Victoria marry too young and miss things they can only have when they are single."

Vivi is working as a model in Hamilton, Ont., doing most of her work for a firm of furriers. She will return after a two-week holiday.

"My title started me on my way," she said, "and I have never forgotten that whenever I have been in the past year."

She said in all her modeling jobs and public appearances she used the title of Miss Victoria and rarely missed an opportunity to publicize the city.

New Courses Offered By Soarers

By HUMPHREY DAVY

Want to learn how to sail among the billowy clouds and soar above the hills and dales?

Now is the time. The Victoria Soaring Club has launched its spring and summer training gliding program.

Robert Knapp, president, said the club will welcome new members who want to learn something about the art of gliding.

"I guarantee that once a person has been aloft, he will take up gliding seriously," he said.

The club operates from Cassidy Airport, near Nanaimo, every Saturday and Sunday.

Since the club was formed two years ago, soaring, also called plane sailing, has zoomed in popularity.

The club, which owns a two-seater glider, has under construction two intermediate high performance sail planes. They should be in the air by the end of the summer.

TRAIN CADETS

Members are also training cadets of No. 89 (Kinmen) RCAF Squadron.

Last year the club made over 1,200 flights and some of these reached an altitude of 4,500 feet.

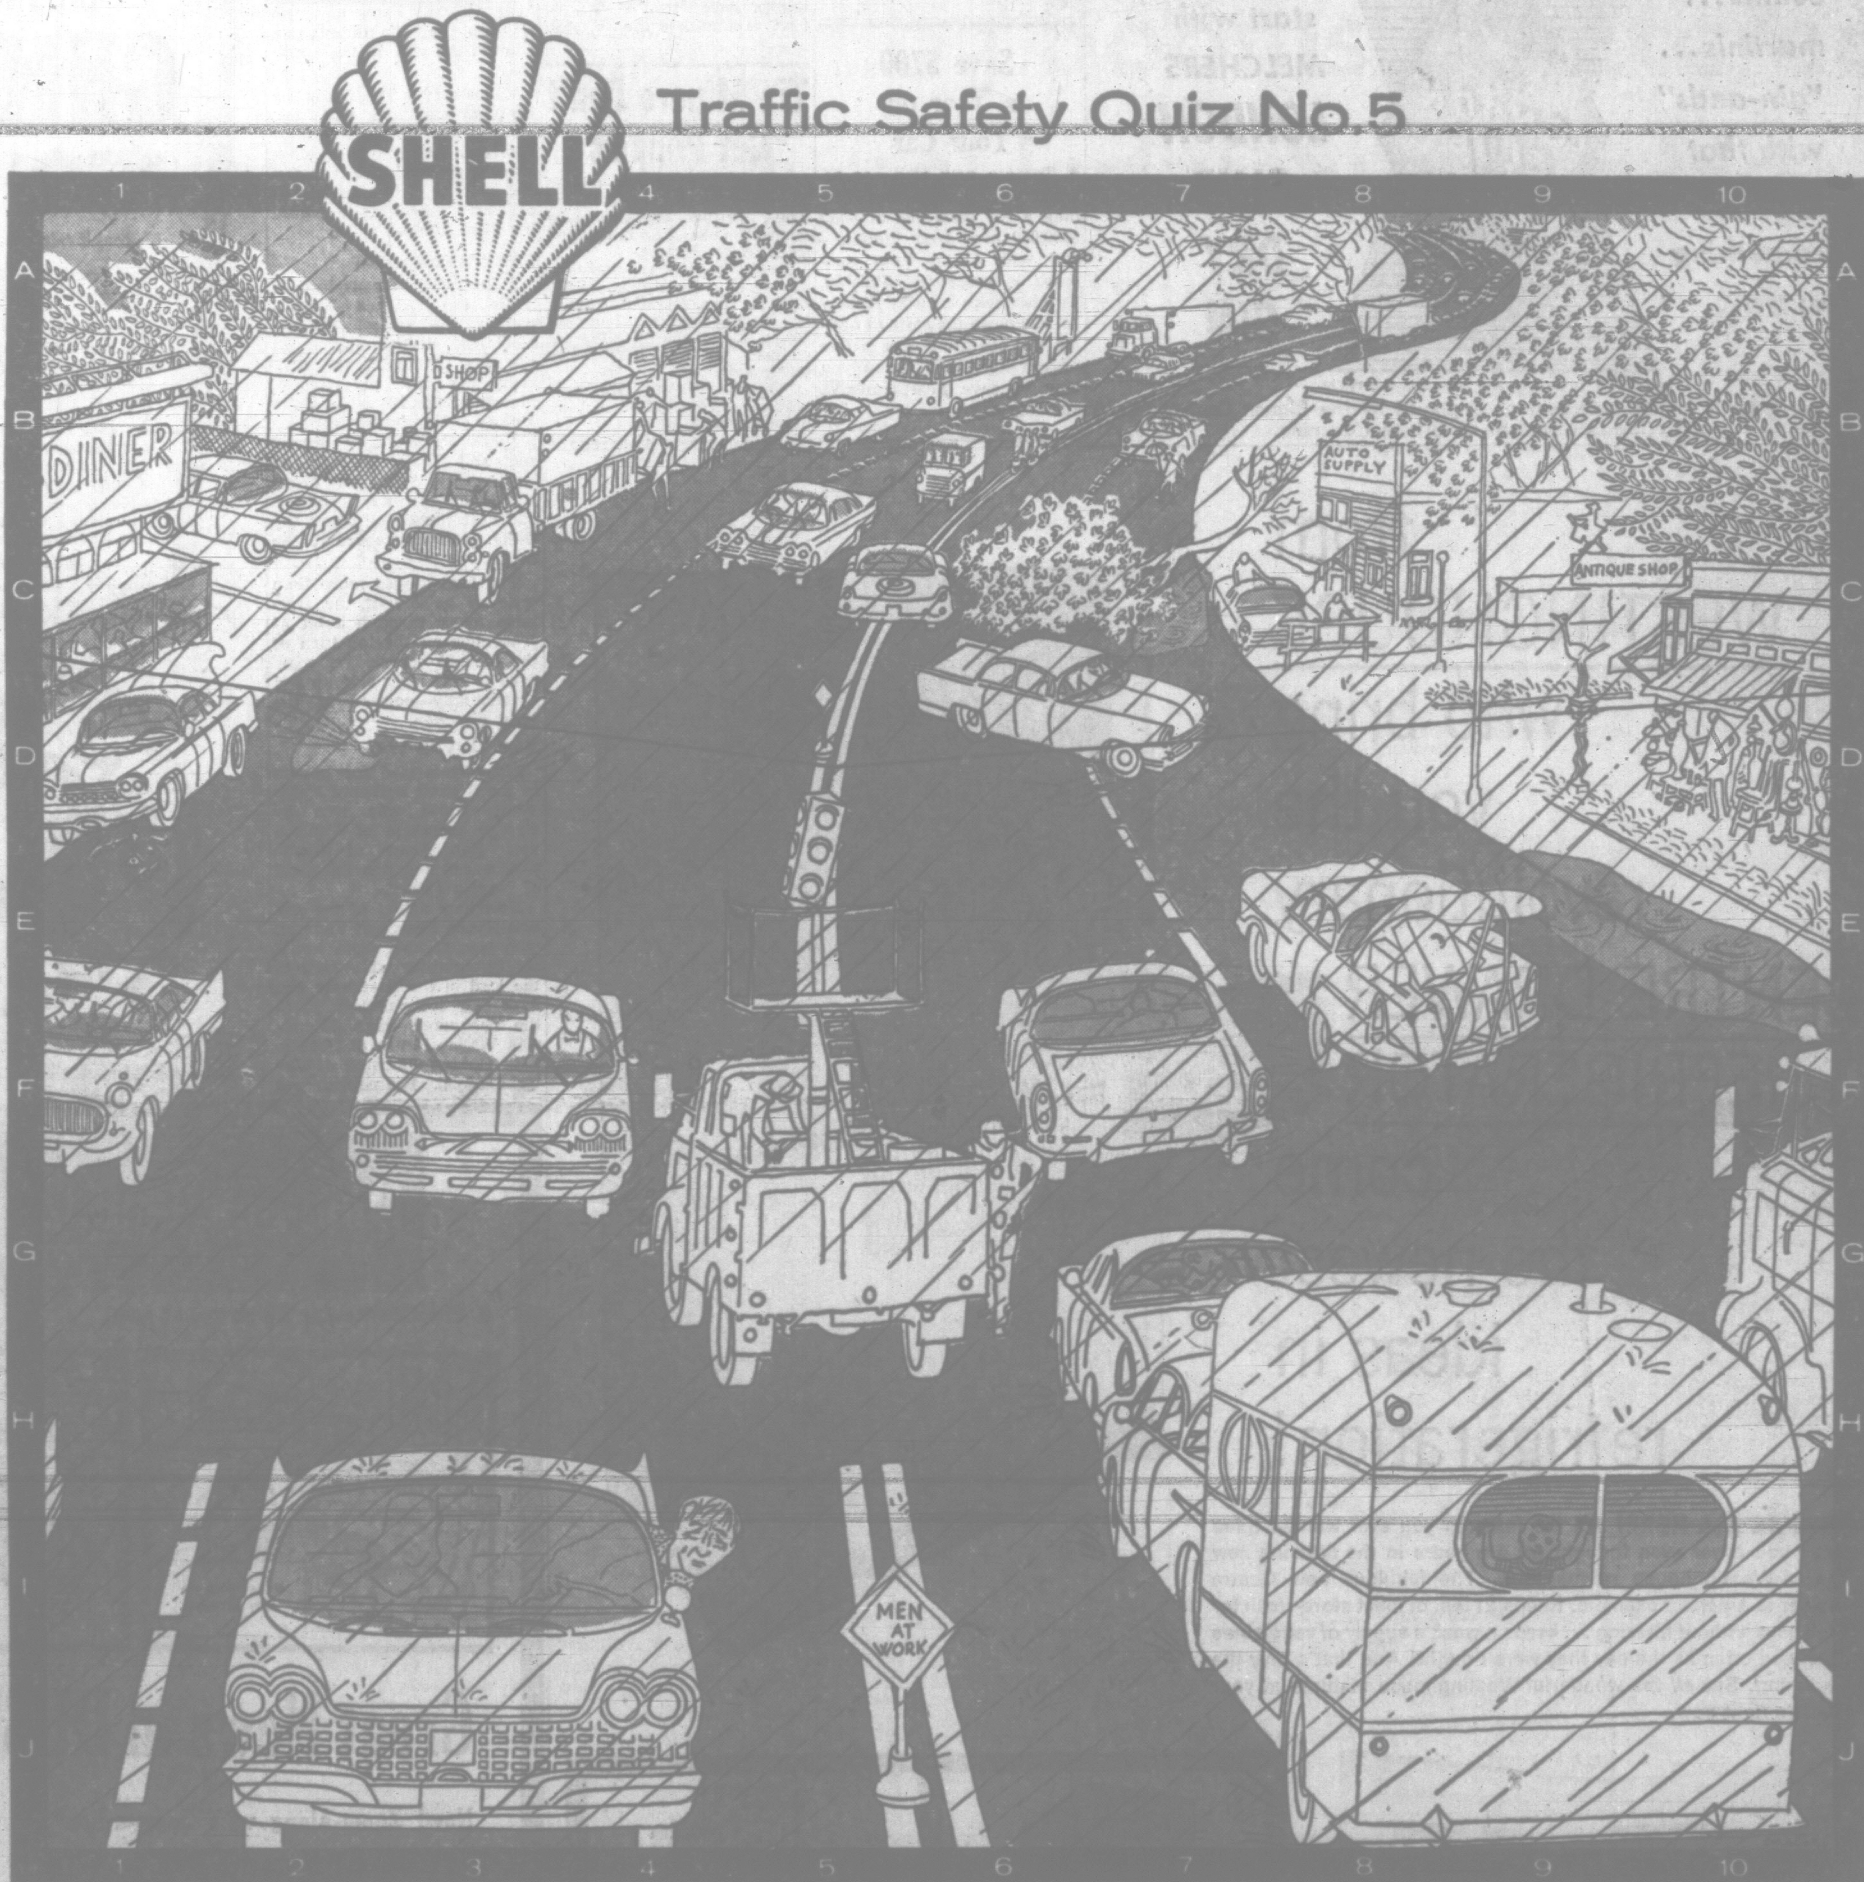

Hal Ford, who is in charge of instruction, said this summer members hope to explore the central mountain range of Vancouver Island as an area for gliding.

"Indications are that thermal heat (heat, reflected from the sun) and air currents over these mountains are so good that a sail plane would be able to stay aloft all day and night without having to come down," he said.

"If this is so, a glider will be able to sail from Nanaimo and Victoria with ease," he said.

Can you find 10 traffic hazards in this picture?

Look sharp! This quiz checks more than the acuteness of your vision. It also tests your judgment of what's right and wrong in this rainy day scene. Look again—then rate yourself against the list. But keep in mind that perceiving a traffic hazard is not enough. A good driver must be prepared to take instant action to avoid trouble.

Like all good citizens, Shell is interested in safety. We urge you to be alert, drive carefully, know the rules—and obey them. Remember: about 75% of all accidents are caused by the driver—not the car.

(Each hazard is located by letter and by number. For example, E8 indicates the car with the trunk lid up in the right center of the picture where lines from E and 8 would cross.)

- 1 Car trunk lid obstructs driver's rear vision (E8, right center)
- 2 Car with trailer following car ahead too closely (H7, lower right)
- 3 Car with non-operating windshield wipers (I-3, lower left)
- 4 Defective traffic light being repaired (E5, center)
- 5 Jacked-up car not completely off road (D1, left center)
- 6 Car making unsafe crossing (D6, center)
- 7 Car over double line skirting fallen tree (C5, upper center)
- 8 Truck partially on road blocking parking area (B3, upper left)
- 9 Motorcycle straddling double line (B6, right center)
- 10 Pedestrian carelessly crossing busy highway (B7, right center)

(These are major hazards; there are others. If you found more than ten, congratulations!)

That's why Shell says: Your Car Has Built-in Safety—YOU!

Alberni, Vernon Boats Show How

By DON INGHAM
Times Boating Editor

Perfect weather, perfect water, and a substantial entry list were combined Sunday afternoon in one of the best boat racing programs seen here in recent years.

A crowd of nearly 3,000 lined the shore of Elk Lake for the races, sponsored by Victoria Inboard-Outboard Association as one of the major events of the Greater Victoria Celebrations' committee program for the Victoria Day holiday week-end.

Two drivers, both visitors, were outstanding. Brad Clark of Vernon, well known here for the way he used to dominate the "B" outboard hydro ranks, was equally successful in the Sunday program in the faster and heavier "D" stock outboard class.

He drove his classy Madame Queen IV to comfortable victories in both heats of the event, although Jim Simpson of Port Alberni, driving Time's A-Wasting, pushed him hard for two laps in the second heat of the event. Simpson finished in second place in the final point standings, and Roger Stanley of Byrton, Wash., drove his Mayday to third place.

The other driver who showed the way to all others in both heats of his event was Jack Butterworth of Alberni. He not only won his own 136-inch inboard hydro class, but in a heat with the home powerful 135-inch craft he once again showed the way to the finish line.

Following his Toss-Up in the 136-inch inboard hydro class, Ron Ordano of Chemainus, who kept his Wee Musketeer close to the leader to take second place, and George Mowat of Port Alberni, who placed his Miss Michief third.

THEY WERE SLOW

Motor trouble conspired to make the 135-inch hydros, usually the fastest at any meet, the disappointment of the day. Actually the division was won by George McKay of Vancouver who drove his 135-inch Hornet into second spot and Orville Hill, Jr., of Benton City, Wash., who drove Bob Johanson's 12-A in the second heat (Johanson drove the first), provided a share of the thrills.

The fans gulped more than once as he fought the fractious hydro through a bit of cross-chop on the top turn of the inshore course, yet managed to stay right side up and—eventually—pointed in the right direction.

VANCOUVER WIN

Nine boats vied for honors in the B stock outboard hydro event, which was won by George Bangham of Vancouver. Ron Kruse of Seattle was second and Bob Schofield of Nanaimo third.

Hard-luck driver of the day was Barrie Pearce of Victoria, who was thrown from his B utility runabout while well in the lead in the first heat and with only 100 yards to go to the chequered flag. Winner was Wayne Kruse of Seattle, with Gordon Johnston of Victoria second. Pearce managed to squeeze into third place out of six entries in final point standings.

B racing hydro class, for outboards running on alcohol fuel and full racing motors, was won by Bill Young of South Burnaby. Vince Lalande of Vancouver was second (and also the second driver of the day to have a boat throw him, in another race), and Ron Snow of Chilliwack was third.

'Shipmates' 50 Years, the Navy Pays Tribute to Esquimalt

The first sunset ceremony of the year performed by the navy was carried out at Bullen Park on Monday as a solemn climax to a weekend at which the RCN was "at home" to thousands of Victoria citizens.

The Esquimalt site was chosen as a tribute to the long association between the navy and the municipality which extends over the entire 50-year history of the Pacific Command.

Close to 200 sailors took part in the colorful ceremony, including a naval honor guard, two field gun crews, and the band of HMCS Naden.

Guest of honor at the sunset rites and a march-past which followed was Reeve A. C. Wurd tele of Esquimalt, a former commander in the RCN.

At 3 p.m. today the ties between Esquimalt and the navy were to be drawn even more closely, with the laying away of the King George VI color at St. Paul's Church, the former naval and garrison church of the RCN's early years.

The Monday ceremony closed off three days of hectic activity for the navy, as it combined the annual Navy Day with special emphasis on its golden anniversary.

Saturday the gates of HMCS Naden and HMC Dockyard were opened wide to receive an estimated 7,000 visitors who swarmed through ship and shore establishments.

Harborcraft kept up a steady shuttle service across Esquimalt Harbor, between Naden, Dockyard and the Seaward Defence base on the Colwood side.

Although the shore exhibits were popular, ships, as always were the main attraction. In addition to Canadian destroyer escorts, frigates and mine-sweepers, two visiting U.S.

navy units were opened to the public, the destroyer Brannon and the submarine Bagra.

The sub, a novelty in these waters, was the stellar attraction, drawing lineups of 200 and more waiting to go aboard for a "walk through."

In the downtown area, the destroyer escort HMCS Fraser was moored at the CPR Belleville Street docks, and was open to the public Sunday and Monday as well as Saturday, drawing a steady stream of visitors each afternoon.

The next "public appearance" of the RCN here will be Friday evening, when the sunset ceremony will be performed at the Legislative Buildings on the eve of the Swiftsure ocean yacht race.

Legal Kickoff For Wen-Gren's New Railroad

The first legal spike was driven today for the railway promised by the Wenner-Gren developers of B.C.'s north.

A certificate of incorporation was issued by the provincial registrar of companies for Pacific Northern Railway Company.

At the same time a memorandum of association was filed by five men—representing the five existing firms which will build the 700-mile link from the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to the Yukon border.

Next step is an application—plus detailed plans—to Transport Minister Lyle Wicks before construction may start.

In a memorandum of agreement with B.C. in 1957, the Wenner-Gren interests who are to develop the Peace River's hydro potential, promised construction of a railway would start by the end of June.

"I expect to hear from them very soon," said Mr. Wicks. "Once the application is underway there's no problem."

Incorporated under the Railway Act, the PNR will have offices in Vancouver.

SUBSCRIBERS

The five subscribers who each promised to "take and pay for" shares up to the amount of $10,000 each are:

Hugh Gordon McHaffie of Associated Electrical Industries Ltd., Toronto; A Douglas McKee, listed as "executive," Toronto;

INDIAN FESTIVAL HIGHLIGHT

Condition Wins For Galiano Crew

A superbly conditioned 11-man crew from Galiano Island combined strength and perfect timing to score a decisive win in the six-mile war canoe race Sunday, highlight of the Vancouver Island Indian Festival at Maple Bank Park.

Paddling in the canoe Mermaid, captained by John Crocker, the Gulf Island braves crossed the finish line more than two lengths ahead of the Island Queen from Kuper Island.

Chehalus, paddled by a crew from the Upper Fraser, was third.

Sixteen war canoes took part in the event for the B.C. championship trophy, and held the undivided attention of the crowd from start to finish.

TWO DAYS

At other times a variety of entertainment ranging from races for women over 50 to a contest for Festival Queen kept visitors amused at both the Sunday and Monday events.

Winner of the Festival Queen title was a grand-niece of Victoria's Chief Mungo Martin, Gloria Hunt, of Prince Rupert.

Representatives of Indian bands from reserves on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, the Upper Fraser Valley, Alert Bay, the Gulf Islands, and Washington State were on hand for the festivities.

CHIEF ON HAND

An honored guest was 28-year-old Louise Underwood, daughter of Chief Ed. Underwood, who recently was elected chief of the Cowichan Band.

The festival was opened Sunday by a long-time friend of the Indians, Harold B. Elworthy, president of Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

Log Booms Scattered As Tidal Surges Hit

Boat Floats Upset In Selkirk Waters

Tidal surges caused by the Chilean earthquake made themselves felt in the Gorge and Esquimalt harbor Monday afternoon.

In the Selkirk Water of the Gorge, the surges broke up log booms, scattered logs across the channel above Point Ellice Bridge, overturned small boat floats and washed the boats up on the overturned floats.

At Esquimalt Harbor, on the Colwood side, the tides marched back and forth over the sand flats, at times retreating so quickly fish were left flapping on the sand.

CHASING LOGS

Dollars-and-cents damage was negligible, but two tugs and a boom boat were still working at noon today to reform booms between Point Ellice Bridge and the CNR trestle.

Capt. Ron Newell, Victoria harbor master, ordered the Gorge closed to shipping shortly after 1 p.m. Monday. The waterway is used only by small craft.

On the west side of the CNR trestle bridge, logs tied to the trestle were broken loose by the tidal surge. As the water came in, they moved up the Gorge; as it retreated, they struck against the trestle. No damage was done.

20-24 INCHES

The surges came at intervals of about 10 minutes, and appeared to vary from 20 to 24 inches. They started around noon, slowly building up in intensity, then levelling out late in the afternoon.

There was a weird, almost hypnotic appearance to the phenomena. One observer said

SCHOLARSHIP FOR INDIANS

A Victoria University scholarship of $150 annually has been made available to Vancouver Island Indian students by Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

Announcement was made Sunday by ITB president Harold B. Elworthy at the opening of an Indian festival at Maple Bank Park in Esquimalt.

The firm is the first in B.C. to make such a scholarship available to the native population.

Selection of the winner is to be made by the chairman of the committee on prizes and scholarship of Victoria University.

SWAMI PREMANAND ... talks tonight

'Power Passion' Blamed by Swami

A widely known 'Hindu swami on a world peace mission said here today the underlying cause of the failure of the summit conference in Paris last week was a "passion for power."

Swami Premnand of Agra, India, who has dedicated his life to yogaism, said if the rulers of both the United States and Russia had sincerely wished to relinquish the power they wield in the world today, the summit conference would have succeeded.

"The average man and woman in the world wants peace," he said. "But it's this thirst for power—this passion to be a great nation, which stands in the way."

MISSION TOUR

Garbed only in a saffron-colored robe and wearing sandals, the swami is on a mission tour of the United States, the West Indies and Europe. He has already visited Japan and Southeast Asia.

He is lecturing tonight at 8 on "Yoga and World Peace" at the C & C Hall, 902 Government Street.

Twenty-eight years old, the swami is a graduate of the University of Agra and is the holder of a Master of Arts degree in history which he received from the Punjab Uni-

PASS IT ON

"I do this to acquire new knowledge and experiences," he said. "Then I pass on my information to the people of the plains."

The average person, he said, could do a lot to improve health by devoting 10 minutes a day to physical exercises and 10 minutes to meditation.

"I don't advocate that you follow the life that I lead," he said. "But you owe it to yourself to devote some part of the day to your body, mind and spirit. That is the only way you will learn how to relax."

THREE HOURS' SLEEP

As for himself, he said, he only slept three hours a day. "But it's a good sound sleep," he added. "I have learned how to relax completely."

On religions, he said, they were basically the same. World peace could only be achieved, he said, when man accepted as guiding principles—compassion, tolerance and understanding.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Would you please tell me who the third prime minister of Canada was, and between what years was he in office? S.G.

A. Rt. Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald, served as prime minister in Canada's third government, from Oct. 17, 1878, to June 6, 1891, but it was his second term in office. He first served as prime minister from Confederation, July 1, 1867, to Nov. 5, 1873. Thus the third MAN to serve as prime minister was Hon. Sir John A. Abbott, who headed Canada's fourth government, from June 16, 1891, to Nov. 24, 1892.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A woman motorist was treated for multiple face injuries after the car she was driving went out of control on Boyd and crashed into a pole on Dallas at 7:15 p.m. Monday.

Police took Lucille Coley, 44, of 126 Dallas, to St. Joseph's Hospital after the accident, which caused medium damage to the car.

Bahkshish Singh, 2615 Rose, emerged unhurt from a pickup truck which he drove from Topaz onto Douglas, lost control, mounted a traffic island, crossed Douglas, went through a wooden fence and dropped about six feet into the yard of R. A. Green Lumber Co. at 5:25 p.m. Sunday.

Esquimalt Golden Age Club will meet Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Esquimalt community hall.

Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy will address the Kiwanis Club of Oak Bay Thursday at 6:15 p.m. in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

A prayer and healing study meeting will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral's Memorial Hall.

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton will discuss municipal problems Monday at 6 p.m. in Holyrood House at a meeting of the Rotary Club of Douglas (Victoria).

Election of officers of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will be held at the organization's annual meeting June 1 at 6:30 p.m. in the Net Loft.

Gabriel Pelkey, East Saanich Reserve, was fined $50 for resisting a peace officer and $25 and $50 costs for using insulting language when he pleaded guilty to charges in Sidney RCMP court today.

Pelkey was arrested during a disturbance at Sidney Hotel Monday night, when Const. W. W. Kittle cautioned the accused, then intervened, resulting in a struggle in which the officer's right wrist was injured.

A stone from the original Hospital of St. John built in Jerusalem by 13th century crusaders will be laid next week as the cornerstone of the St. John Ambulance Association's new training centre in Victoria.

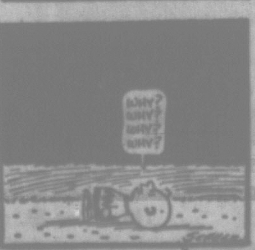

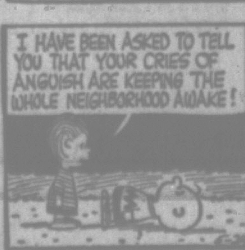

Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross will lay the cornerstone, a block of Ashlar stone measuring 3 feet by 1½ feet, at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the 941 Pandora site of the new centre.

Benediction will be pronounced by Rev. Angus Cameron during the ceremony.

Rehabilitation needs of mental patients returning to the community will be discussed by Dr. James Tyhurst, professor of psychiatry at the University of B.C., at a public meeting Friday at 8 p.m. in the Crystal Garden.

The meeting will be sponsored by the Victoria branch, Canadian Mental Health Association. A one-day conference and workshop will be held on the same theme.

Postmasters from the Victoria, Cowichan and Malahat districts will meet Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Cobble Hill community hall to discuss business that will come up at the B.C. Postmasters' Association annual conference in Vernon next month.

This Miracle Marker Will Keep Tools From Straying

By PENNY SAVER

Millions of small children give a hectic time tracing father's tools and other household articles once younger members of the family "borrow" them for outside play. Wise women will mark things like hammers, saws and garden tools with one of the amazing marking pens I saw today.

Pens have a felt tip and contain marking ink that is waterproof, rub-proof, and will mark anything, whether it's clothing or metal. Ink dries instantly and comes in black, blue, brown, green, orange, red, purple, yellow, light blue and pink. Handy marker would be excellent, too, for marking parcels or whipping up posters and signs for bazaars and other affairs.

For 69 cents you can buy a complete marker and refill cartridge. If, after a while, you need another refill, these can be bought for 29 cents.

Fluorescent light fixtures save the houseowner many dollars in electricity bills as they provide almost three times the amount of light as conventional bulbs. Newest product in this field is a goose-neck desk or table lamp that comes complete with a new horseshoe shaped bulb. Lamps have push-button handling and stand and shade are in shades of tan. These can be bought for $14.95 in one downtown store.

Ring the changes with your favorite dressmaker suit by using one of two dainty vesties I saw today. First is styled in flattering wrap-over V-shaped and is fashioned from delicate nylon. Colors are marvellous! You can choose from royal blue, pink, turquoise, beige, tan, coral, brown, mauve and pale blue. All have waist ties and sell for $195.

If you prefer a high neck style you'll love second vestee that is gathered at neckline with an adjustable pearl choker. These are in airy rayon and come in mauve, pink, blue, white or black. Price of these charmers is $2.

For information on any of these items phone Penny at EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Summer Sun Causes Skin Trouble for Some

This is the time of year when I receive many letters asking for help with skin problems. Here are a few of the things readers ask.

"I am literally ashamed in the summer time because of my very freckled arms. Is there any product which will cover these up. I hate to wear three-quarter sleeves and gloves all summer long."

"I always have had nice, white skin. However, since last summer (when I was in the sun much more than usual for a few weeks) I have ugly, dark pigmentation on my arms. I thought it would fade out this winter but it hasn't. What can I do?"

"I used to get a nice tan every summer. It was smooth and attractive but now I get dark spots and my complexion does not seem to return to its usual fairness."

Well, there are a few facts we must face. In the first place some complexions respond to direct sunlight much more happily than others. The very fair, thin-skinned woman may just get rashes or blisters while her brunet sister acquires a lovely tan.

We must also admit that age has some influence on the problem. Many women who "got away" with sunning themselves in early years can not do so from middle age on. They get brown spots which they would not have had without direct exposure to the sun. They also get lines they would not otherwise have had because the natural oils in the skin decrease with the years and sunshine is also drying.

So, it is really a question of a choice which every mature woman has to make. Some think, "I'll forget it and enjoy myself," which is a very happy and healthy attitude. Others prefer to cater to their complexions. As I said, it depends a lot on the type of skin you have. The very fair, sensitive skin may never take a good tan and may suffer real damage from too much direct sunlight. Since we are on the verge of summer, tomorrow I will give you some suggestions for a "middle of the road" outlook.

For Young Artists—At a meeting of the Association for Childhood Education, Victoria Branch, a sum of $150 was voted for the purchase of art supplies for the children's classes at the Greater Victoria Art Gallery. It was also decided to give $25 to the University of Victoria Building Fund. Mrs. Sydney Craig, who recently returned from studying and working with Dr. Arthur Lismer, in Montreal, led a discussion on children's art. She also demonstrated mural painting with a group of five and six-year-old children.

Delegates—Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. W. Mortimer and Mrs. H. McKenzie, delegates to Pen-tion meeting of the British Columbia Women's Liberal Association, gave reports at recent well-attended meeting of the Liberal Women's Forum. Elected to the provincial executive are Mrs. Reid, vice-president; Mrs. A. Ketchell, treasurer, and Mrs. McKenzie, resolution convener. Mrs. J. Slater reported on recent whist party. Former Victorian Wed in South

First Methodist Church, Medford, Ore., was setting for the marriage recently of Burl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hanneson of Medford, formerly of Victoria, and Joseph Surgenor, North Vancouver, son of Joseph Surgenor, Belfast, Northern Ireland, and the late Mrs. Surgenor. Dr. George G. Roseberry conducted the afternoon service. White stocks and pink snapdragons decorated the church. Rev. Robert Jacks was soloist.

Bride's ballerina-length dress of embroidered tulle had a fitted bodice, sabrina neckline and long sleeves. An elbow-length veil of silk illusion cascaded from her lace pillbox and she carried a cascade of pink May Day roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Barbara Tyler, maid of honor, wore a shell pink organdy and lace dress and a head-pearls overlaid with a circular veil. White feathered carnations were in her cascade bouquet.

Bill Hanneson, bride's brother, was best man and usher was Carl Gustafson.

John S. Logle proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Rogue Valley Country Club, Medford. Mr. and Mrs. William Dickenson and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wakefield of Sidney were among out-of-town guests.

Newlyweds left on a honeymoon to California and Nevada. Bride wore a jewel blue pure silk ensemble, white accessories and white orchid corsage.

Couple will live in North Vancouver.

LODE Assists Boer War Nurse

At recent meeting of Municipal Chapter, LODE, a sum of $100 was voted to assist in sending Mrs. Rose A. MacLennan, Rose Manor, to the 60th annual convention of Boer War Veterans, in Toronto this weekend. Mrs. MacLennan, 85, is a member of Florence Nightingale Chapter, and is the only surviving Boer War nursing sister in Canada.

Mrs. O. P. Fowler presided. Mrs. R. Freethy was named convener of a Tag Day in September. A sum of $50 was voted for new drapes in the women's lounge at Veterans' Hospital.

Plans were completed for a service of intercession at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, at 11 a.m. on May 29 and a memorial service at the Cross of Sacrifice, Ross Bay Cemetery, at 3 p.m., on June 5.

Lachasse of London

The sought after silhouette—broad shoulders, slim waist—is created by Lachasse of London. It's a simple dress to make because it requires little fitting. It hangs from the shoulder, flaring toward the hem, to be pulled in smartly at the waist by a wide surplice belt that ties in front. Select your correct size from this chart. Our measurements are comparable to ready-to-wear sizes.

Size	Bust	Waist	Hips	Length*
10	34	24	35	inches 16½ inches
12	35	25	36	inches 16½ inches
14	36½	26½	37½	inches 17 inches
16	38	28	39	inches 17½ inches
18	40	30	41	inches 17½ inches

*From nape of neck to waist.

Size 12 requires 5½ yards of 36-inch material for dress. To order Pattern No. NS-257, state size, send $1.25. For air mail handling, add 25 cents. For Lachasse label, send 25 cents. DEAR ABBY

Charity Begins at Home, Lady!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband's lodge membership is breaking up my marriage. He has held every office—local, district, and now he is a regional officer. He has become a ladies' man behind my back and spends too many nights attending meetings, going to dinners and getting in at all hours.

He receives no money at all for all this gallivanting and everywhere he goes someone hits him for raffle tickets and donations, and since he acts like a big shot he can't say no.

I can't take it any more and am seriously considering divorce. I think every man should have a little outside activity, but when it's overdone like this, what's the answer?

LODGE WIDOW.

DEAR LODGE WIDOW: A husband who is happy at home doesn't seize every opportunity to run away from it. Your problem is not what's on the "outside" but what is lacking on the inside.

Under the cinders, the home fires could still be burning. Shake your grates and revive the live coals. Get a new hair-do and a new outfit. Listen to his troubles, but don't tell him yours. Let him know that there is nothing on the outside worth putting on his hat for—and he'll stay home.

DEAR ABBY: Our problem is our son. He is 32, a college grad, good-looking (maybe too good-looking) and a bachelor. He lives at home. He recently took a job with a big concern. Lately he has been getting calls at all hours of the night. When he gets a call he showers, shaves, dresses and drives off without regard to the hour.

When his father questioned him, he admitted he was seeing his boss' wife. He says she is fat, 40 and means nothing to him. How do you convince a 32-year-old boy that this is dangerous? He says he knows what he's doing and this is one way of getting ahead.

MRS. S.

DEAR MRS. S.: This may be one way of "getting ahead"—but it is also one way of getting a headstone. A 32-year-old is a MAN, not a boy. And if he doesn't know that his behavior is immoral, illegal and just plain stupid, someone ought to remind him.

DEAR ABBY: I am over 21 and have never been married. I own my own business. I have a young woman working in my office who is a dead ringer for Marilyn Monroe. I can't keep my mind on my work when she is around. Have you any practical suggestions?

BARRY.

DEAR BARRY: Either fire her or marry her.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to add my comment about the "respectable businessman" who doesn't appreciate his wife's efforts to guard his reputation.

He should know that no respectable married man rides alone in a car with any divorced (except his close relatives), if he wants to stay respected.

My husband is a professional man who thanks me when I point out to him situations which might compromise his reputation. He knows I trust him implicitly, but neither of us trust the vicious gossip in this town.

APPECIATED.

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this enclosure a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Costly Moths

LONDON (CP)—Council of the Southwark district has to foot a heavy bill because of moths. In new blocks of flats draught-proof fibre pads were laid beneath the floors, and swarms of moths made their homes in them. The council sued the contractors but lost the case, and now must pay court costs and builders' bills for removing the pads.

Jo-Anne Fane Lauder Marries RMC Cadet In Dundas, Ontario

A former Victorian, Miss Jo-Anne Fane Lauder, became the bride of RMC Cadet Robert Keith Bryden, Royal Military College, Kingston, in a wedding on Monday afternoon at St. James' Anglican Church, Dundas, Ont. Bride who is a former student of Oak Bay High School, is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Lauder of Victoria, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Bryden of Dundas, Ont. Rev. R. S. C. Grigg conducted the ceremony. For her marriage, the slender, dark-haired bride wore a princess-styled gown of Swiss embroidered eyelet organza with scalloped neckline dipping to V in the back, trimmed with iridescent sequins and pearls. A large organza bow graced the bustle back of the full skirt which billowed to a chapel train. Sequins and pearls sparkled on her cap which held a shoulder-length veil. She carried a star-shaped bouquet of white roses and carnations. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Sandra Lauder, bride's sister from Victoria, was maid of honor wearing a scarlet organza dress. Bridesmaids, Miss Vivi Hansen and Miss Judy Bryden wore identical frocks in aqua tone. Trio had how bandeaux trimmed with wispy face veils and carried red and white carnations in their bouquets.

FO. Arthur E. Lane was best man. Trevor Bryden and Cadet Wayne Hammond ushered. Reception was held in the church hall. The bride's family motored to the east from Victoria to attend the wedding.

A turquoise sheath dress with matching three-quarter-length coat and white accessories were worn by the bride for a honeymoon trip motoring to Winnipeg where she and her husband will make their home.

FALL AND WINTER 'LOOK' GIVES BROWN AS HIGH FASHION COLOR

LONDON (Reuters)—The London look for next fall and winter was paraded for overseas buyers and fashion writers Monday at a show by 27 ready-to-wear houses opening "London fashion week."

Brown in all shades emerged as the fashionable color for the fall. It was even used in a full-length, chocolate-brown dress of nylon mousseline shown by Linzi, a house which exports to 34 countries.

Runners-up in the color stakes were in the purple, mauve and wine-red range and all the greens from lettuce to olive.

Hemlines stay up, but waistlines drop in the new autumn and winter clothes showing in New York.

The opening of the collections started on Seventh Avenue last week and until the middle of June, store buyers and fashion reporters will get a cram course in what's new for the cold season.

Already, these major trends shape up. The waistline goes sinking down around the upper hip, with the torso smoothly fitted; fabrics never were richer nor the use of fur for trim and linings so lavish; purple is back in every shade from pale lavender to the deep electric tones.

'THIS IS REALLY CANADA'

Editors Enjoy Sooke Funfest

Canadian managing editors and their wives, from Atlantic to Pacific, joined enthusiastically in a seafood barbecue and dance at Sooke Saturday night.

"I can't remember when I've had more fun," said John Dauphinee, general news editor of The Canadian Press in Toronto, who attended with his wife Allison.

"The people of Sooke certainly extended themselves in giving us a grand time," said Larry N. Smith, managing editor of the St. Catharines Standard, Ont.

Nearly 200 newspaper editors and their wives travelled to Sooke as guests of the British-American Oil Co. Ltd. at the close of the three-day Canadian Managing Editors Conference at the Empress Hotel.

LOGGERS' DISPLAY

was a spectacular display of logging, tree-felling and climbing put on by local loggers.

"This is the Canada I've been looking for ever since I left England 15 years ago," commented the wife of an eastern newspaper editor. "It is really terrific."

Jack Yocom of B.A. Oil Company received the guests as they arrived at Sooke in five motor coaches.

"The seafood was the best

I've ever had," said a Newfoundland editor.

The Sooke barbecue followed a reception at Government House by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross.

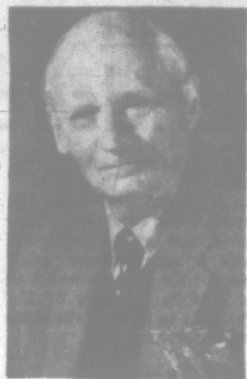

The visitors exclaimed enthusiastically about the new mansion and its setting which was glorious in a brilliant sunshine and a magnificent view of the strait. Mrs. Ross took the wives on a tour of the upstairs rooms, showing where the Queen and Prince Philip stayed on their visit last year.

Handshake With K Hit by Quebec Liberal

MONTMAGNY, Que. (CP)

leader in Quebec, has called on the government of Premier Antonio Barrette to cancel the iron ore concessions in Ungava to Cyrus Eaton at once.

Lesage pointed out that Eaton, Canadian-born Cleveland industrialist, stopped off in Paris the other day on his way to Czechoslovakia and shook hands with Premier Khrushchev just after the collapse of the summit conference because of Khrushchev's insults to the Western world.

IN CHINA — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery entered China Monday for three-day visit and talks with Red Chinese leaders.

RACING CAR CRASHES BRIDGE, KILLING SIX

AIX-LES-BAINS, France (CP)—A speeding racing car slammed into an overpass that collapsed across the local race course Sunday, killing six persons and injuring 30.

The dead included the driver of the racing car, Chris Threlfall, 30, of Birmingham, England.

Witnesses estimated Threlfall was travelling 125 miles per hour when he slammed into the fallen overpass.

SUN SMILES ON BIG VICTORIA DAY PARADE

75,000 New Friends for Weatherman

By MICHAEL ROSE

The weatherman had 75,000 friends Monday as the sun smiled down on a big, colorful Victoria Day parade.

Cheerful crowds craned to see bands, floats, majorettes and ramrod straight military platoons as they twined through the city in a two-mile serpentine.

Good-natured adults passed small children through to the front of ranks that were 10 and 12 deep in many places. Trees and lamp posts were thick with leather-jungled lads who cheered everything in sight.

Mayor Percy Scurrell welcomed Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and his wife at the saluting base on Pandora Avenue, then jumped into his open car and rushed off with cheerful disregard for city speed limits to head the parade.

With the lieutenant-governor, clad in morning coat and top hat, were representatives of the armed services, including the United States Navy, who stepped forward in turn as their units marched by to take the salute with Mr. Ross.

Americans Lead

First to come in sight was the combined platoon of seamen from USN ships in Esquimalt Harbor for the weekend, who received a big welcome from Victorians, who have come to regard them as regular guests.

The loudest applause was given the Royal Canadian Navy's color guard and four platoons of men marching to the strains of "Hearts of Oak." Unit after unit of army and air force followed, but it took the Canadian Scottish pipe band to prove that a large piece of the city's heart lies in the Highlands.

Love the Mounties

The Canadian Women's Army Corps swung past with military femininity.

Cameras came up and the usual oohs and aahs started as scarlet-clad Royal Canadian Mounted Police appeared.

Hearts of the many women watching were obviously touched by the three platoons of valiant little Navy League Cadets who hurried by with more eagerness than precision.

This seemed to be the day for young ones as majorettes in platoons and majorettes seemed to get smaller and smaller.

Losing Struggle

The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Cadet Corps looked smart but in the very last file a little soldier was trying hard to keep up. With his short stride he could march a few steps, then hop and skip to catch up and fall out of step.

Following Mayor Scurrell, and city aldermen in sports cars, came the Victoria May Queen float with queen Sherin Molyard and her two princesses, Elaine Hiscock and Mona McConnell.

This float won second prize in the commercial category and was beaten by the beautiful Trans-Canada Airlines entry. Third was the blue iris-covered Spanish Fruit Growers' Association float.

The Victoria Bluebird Majorettes must have been the smallest marchers anywhere.

The sun faded, a light breeze sprang up and anxious glances were thrown skywards, but the small patch of cloud soon cleared.

Prize for the best band went to the Vancouver Fire Department, but the visiting American high schools were most impressive with their whistle-controlled playing and marching.

The 110-member Bellingham High School Band won first prize for school bands.

'Tweed Curtain'

Some 80 members of the Everett High School band electrified watchers by, not only playing a cha-cha, but dancing the steps in perfect time and giving a rousing vocal accompaniment.

After this came a section of comic entries as horsemen, clowns, and a "tweed curtain" float from Oak Bay passed.

One clown vaulted on to the back of a Western Horseman's mount and the affronted animal started to produce some creditable bucks which soon deposited the luckless clown on the pavement.

The sound of a siren wailed from back up the parade route and anxious glances were darted along the road.

Chug, Chug, Chug

Worried looks changed to indulgent smiles and delighted shouts from the children as the ubiquitous Shrine Clown special chugged down the street with Shriners festooned from the mock engine hurling candies to children.

The Victoria Cycling Club showed everyone the sport is a long way from dying out as they came by with about 80 members on stripped down racing machines.

First prize for girls' pipe bands went to the Victoria Girls' Pipe Band which swung by to the stirring strains of "My Bonnie Lassie."

"I don't know what it is," said one man, with a heavy central European accent, "but those pipes get me every time."

Interspersed between the marchers and bands were commercial and private floats and many a manufacturer must have felt the expense was well worth while to judge by the comments on some of the sleek boats and shiny cars.

More Spinning

A minor complaint was voiced by one woman who asked why the majorettes didn't spin their batons more. "You see there," she said, as the S. J. Willis majorette came by, "she's the only one doing it really well."

And so it came to an end with 25 buzzing little Go-Karts making rings around the floats as the parade wound away out of sight and people turned to make their way home.

Opinions differed on whether it had been the best ever, but best or not it had been two hours of fun and spectacle for Victorians in the sunshine that only Victoria can produce. Complete prize results:

Examiners Coming In June

One of the most distinguished groups of examiners yet to visit the city on behalf of Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, will be here in June to conduct examinations for this area.

Margaret Miller Brown, an outstanding teacher of piano on the faculty, will arrive June 5 and will undertake a heavy schedule, concluding June 18.

Vocal students will be examined by George Lambert, June 15; violin and wind instruments by Albert Fritz, June 23, and speech arts by Clara Salisbury Baker, on June 13.

Mr. Lambert visited the city on a previous occasion when he adjudicated vocal classes at the Victoria Music Festival.

Vanier Presents Guidon In Colorful Ceremony

VANCOUVER (CP) — Governor-General George Vanier made his first appearance in military dress in British Columbia Sunday, wearing the uniform of a major-general as he presented the guidon to the British Columbia Regiment (Duke of Connaught's Own).

The Governor-General presented the pennant during a half-hour ceremony in warm sunshine on the plaza of the Queen Elizabeth Theatre in downtown Vancouver where about 2,000 guests and spectators gathered to watch.

The traditional ceremony of presentation of colors was the only service commitment of a 10-day visit to B.C., which ends Wednesday.

TOOK SALUTE

Wearing the Distinguished Service Order and the Military Cross and Bar, while a founder member of the Royal 22nd Regiment in the First World War, Gen. Vanier reviewed the guidon guard of honor, stood by while the pennant was consecrated, presented the guidon and then took the salute in a march past.

The ceremony went off without a flaw.

Following the presentation, the Governor-General and Madame Vanier met the militia unit's officers and their ladies, then travelled to Port Coquitlam to the ranch of the unit's honorary colonel, Hon. Clarence Wallace, for tea.

The guidon, a pennant on a lance, carried by cavalry units (now armored), evolved from the banners of the knights in the middle ages. It is like a flag, a rallying point for the fighters.

The pennant presented to the B.C. Regiment Sunday contains new battle honors won by the Duke of Connaught's Own in the Second World War along with others from the Boer War and the First World War, and the insignias and affiliations of the regiment—artillery, rifles, infantry and armored.

The regiment now has 21 battle honors emblazoned on the guidon, designed by Maj.-Gen. H. F. G. Letson, honorary lieutenant-colonel of the regiment.

Top Drama Prize To London Group

VANCOUVER (CP) — Top award in the Dominion Drama Festival went Saturday night to London Little Theatre for its presentation of Luigi Pirandello's Six Characters in Search of An Author.

It also took prizes for the best actress and best supporting actor.

The University Alumnae Dramatic Club from Toronto, with its presentation of The Killdeer by Winnipeg's James Reaney, won four awards. Mr. Reaney won the Massey Award for the best Canadian playwright at the festival.

Victoria Mitchell, helicat step-daughter in the winning play, was given the Nella Jefferis Challenge Trophy for best actress "without any hesitation."

Paul Soles, director of the theatre company which is invaded by the "six characters" of the play, won the Saturday Night Prize.

Al Kozlik won the Henry Osborne Challenge Trophy for best actor with his performance as the tormented father in Vancouver's A View From the Bridge, by American playwright Arthur Miller.

The best director award went to Pamela Terry, formerly of Victoria, of the University Alumnae Dramatic Group.

FATAL BEATING GIVEN DRIVER

TORONTO (CP) — A 29-year-old man was hauled from his car and beaten to death at a busy downtown intersection early Monday following a minor traffic accident.

Police said George Larkin of Toronto, father of two children, stopped his car at the intersection of Dundas and Bay Streets and was bumped from behind by another vehicle.

One of two men in the second car jumped out, pulled Larkin to the road and beat him as shocked pedestrians looked on.

Philip Starks, 30, of Detroit was charged with murder.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Robert Young, age 11, of Williamsport, Penna., for his question:

What is a Water Ouzel?

If you ever see this amazing bird in action, you will think he is bent on committing suicide. For he plunges into the wild waves head first, time and again. He makes his home high in the northern mountains and up in Alaska he is still busy when the temperature drops to 50 below zero. He is also found on some of the majestic redwood slopes of California.

The water ouzel, alias the dipper, is a relative of the robin and the sweet singing European blackbird. He is not much of a singer but, as his name suggests, he is a great one for the water. This may be strange, for most shore birds and water birds have webbed feet to help them swim. The water ouzel has straight toes like those of a robin. But he does have the typical water bird feathers, dense and heavy with water repellent oil. This coat keeps him warm in the cold mountain weather.

Most water birds like gentle shores and calm streams. But this water is too tame for the busy ouzel. He loves white water, tumbling mountain streams, rushing rapids and cascading cataracts. The rougher and wilder the water, the better he likes it.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Linda Myers, age 12, of Visalia, Calif., for her question:

HOW DO HURRICANES AND TYPHOONS DIFFER?

These storms rip along certain paths on the earth's surface. Wherever they blow, the people have their own name for them. Those that rage up the Atlantic coast are called hurricanes. Those that tear into the China coast, Japan and the Philippines are called typhoons. Those that strike the northwest coast of Australia are called willy-willies. Those that howl up the Indian Ocean are called cyclones.

No matter what we call them, these terrible storms are more or less alike. Each is doughnut-shaped and has violent, spirally winds with thunder, lightning and lashing rain. In the centre is a calm area of sunny blue skies and perhaps wispy white clouds. When weathermen talk together, they call all of these raging storms tropical cyclones.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

LONDON — Orson Welles, wearing a billowing black Hong Kong robe big enough for two people—it just about fit him—puffed a cigar and talked about his new hit play,

ORSON WELLES ... one of the ups

"Rhinceros," which is about people who become rhinceroses because it's the thing to do.

"We were lucky," said Welles, who directed the Eugene Ionesco play starring Sir Laurence Olivier.

You can hardly get tickets to the mad, wild show at the Royal Court — but Welles claimed, roaming about his temporary home here, "A hit show in London doesn't change anybody's attitude toward you."

"In New York," he remembered, laughing explosively, "suddenly a bright light flashes down from the sky—but if you don't have a hit, you can't get a table in a restaurant."

For Orson, the ex-child wonder from Wisconsin, this triumph was just one of the ups in the life of an itinerant who's also had plenty of downs.

"We still live in Italy, outside of Rome, on the sea," he said.

"But being in show business today is like being a cherry picker. We go where the crops are."

"I just did a movie in Paris—I acted in it; now I'm waiting for Charlton Heston. He's coming from Australia."

"We're going to do 'Julius Caesar' for CBS and British TV."

Did Welles prefer directing to acting?

"It's like the cherry crop. Whatever is going we take. Except that I'm choosier about what I direct than what I act in."

Would this hit summon him perhaps again to New York or Hollywood?

"I'm just waiting for the phone to ring," he grinned. Actually, he added, "I'm hustling a picture, 'Chimes at Midnight.' It's my own story."

"The only secret is where the money's coming from!" Orson, his Italian wife, and his small daughter, thrive on this itinerant life—as evidenced by his size.

THE WEEKEND WINDUP
"Don't print that!": The star of a E-way show found a "No Dogs Backstage" sign at the theatre, and shouted "No dog, no show!"—till she was allowed to bring her pooch in. ... One of Hollywood's wealthiest and most famous actors buys his wife's dresses at a Manhattan wholesale shop.

Olivia de Havilland finished a book about Paris, won't do an autobiography. ... Vivien Leigh asked author Jerome Weidman for his "Florence" tickets, but he'd already given 'em to his mother—for her butcher. ... Brigitte Bardot's ex-beau, Sacha Distel, took pictures of a Manhattan movie marquee advertising "Jacques Charrier — Brigitte Bardot's husband," and laughed, "Wait till I show these to the boys in Paris!" ... Singer Johnny Desmond, who hopes to star in a Russ Columbo film bio, wants Lindsay Crosby to portray Bing.

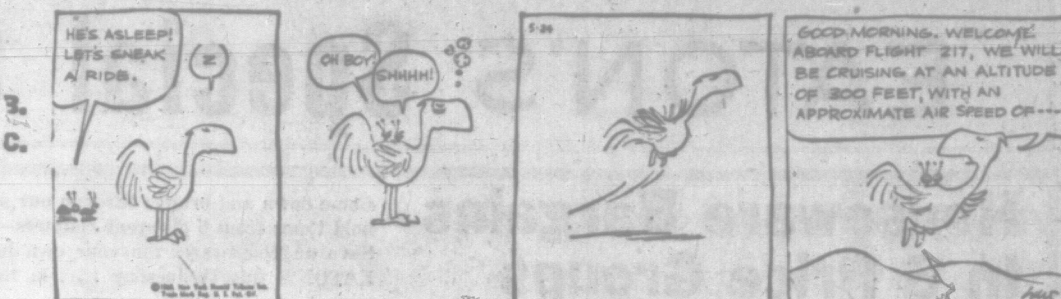

EARL'S FEARS: No wonder foreigners have a tough time with our language. Take the words "looked over" and "overlooked"—any woman can tell you there's a whale of a difference.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Along Broadway a phony is anybody who's doing better than you are.

Joe E. Lewis said it: "A lush is a guy who always looks like it's 4 o'clock in the morning."

That's Earl, brother.

SPY ACCUSATIONS TRADED

UN Council Unlikely To Back Red Charges

LAST TWO SURVIVORS TAKEN FROM MCKINLEY

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Alaska's mountain rescue saga ended today with the safe arrival here of the last two men stranded on Mount McKinley since last Tuesday night.

The Whittaker Twins of Redmond, Wash.—James and Louis—were taken to the Elmendorf Air Force Base hospital for treatment of minor frostbite.

The Whittakers came down off the mountain under their own power.

Still on the mountain were 15 to 20 mountain climbers, who took part in the rescue of the Whittakers, two companions and a very ill woman who had been a member of another climbing party.

RCMP Tracking Smuggled Chinese

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Immigration authorities said today a series of RCMP raids across the country this morning could lead to the smashing of a well-organized Chinese immigration racket.

For several years now, immigration officials have suspected the existence of an international organization to obtain illegal entry to Canada for Chinese from China, Hong Kong and Macao.

The RCMP raided homes in Montreal, Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Sarnia, Peterborough and the Eastern Townships of Quebec this morning, seeking further evidence in their investigations.

The latest full-scale investigation was ordered about one and a half years ago by Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough, who told the House of Commons in January it was a matter of "grave concern."

Immigration investigators have made several trips to Hong Kong, where they dove-tailed their probe with investigations conducted by the British Colonial Office.

Federal authorities fear blackmail and slavery are involved in the immigration racket.

They say some Chinese employers pay up to $5,000 for the forged passports and documents and transportation required to bring a Hong Kong Chinese to Canada. The immigrant is then required to work for slave wages, under the threat of exposure and deportation.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Trying to repair the wreckage of the summit, the United Nations Security Council was called back into its emergency session this afternoon after hearing the Soviet Union and the United States exchange spy charges.

Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon was among those expected to speak, and in the background of the debate was a proposal calling on the Big Four to resume the negotiations that collapsed at the summit in Paris last week.

Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko charged at the opening of the special session Monday that U.S. spy flights were aggressive acts creating a threat to universal peace. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge retorted that Russia has thousands of spies around the world.

Gromyko—the only foreign minister in the debate—spoke for an hour, following in more moderate terms the denunciation of the U.S. unleashed by Premier Khrushchev in Paris.

QUOTES CHIEF

Lodge spoke for only 15 minutes and he, too, quoted the words of his chief. President Eisenhower, at the summit regarding the American U-2 spy flights that drew Russian wrath.

At the outset of the debate council president Sir Claude Core of Ceylon pleaded for a "renewed spirit of goodwill" and said the security body had the "opportunity to conduct its

Spy-Plane Probe Called

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate foreign relations committee voted unanimously today to conduct a "full and bipartisan inquiry" into the spy-plane incident and events leading up to the collapse of the summit conference.

The inquiry will start Friday with testimony from State Secretary Christian Herter. It will be conducted at closed sessions, but edited transcripts of testimony will be made public after being censored for security reasons.

Russians Release 9 Fliers

BERLIN (UPI)—The Soviet Union promised today to release the nine Americans captured Friday when their army C-47 transport strayed behind the iron curtain and it was believed the nine would reach West Germany this afternoon.

The U.S. army dispatched a liaison team headed by Lt.-Col. Clarke T. Baldwin of Warren, Va., deep into Communist territory to bring the nine persons aboard to safety, either in their own airplane or by road.

The team of army officers from the American military mission Potsdam, East Germany, inspected the plane this afternoon in the grain field where Soviet MiG-17 jet fighters forced it to land Friday.

The Soviet decision to release the plane was announced in an unusually conciliatory letter from Col.-Gen. O. I. Jacobovskii, Soviet commander in Germany, to Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, U.S. army commander.

The note—which contrasted sharply with Russian reaction to the U-2 spy plane incident—said the eight men and one woman and their aircraft would be turned over to the U.S. army at the point where it landed and at a time chosen by the U.S. army.

MISSILE SPOTTER

U.S. Fires Spy-in-Sky Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The United States launched a 2½-ton Midas earth satellite today to test a "spy-in-the-sky" system for detecting hostile missiles within seconds after they are fired.

A few hours later it was reported the satellite was successfully in orbit.

An 88-foot, two-stage Atlas Agena blasted from the Cape at 1:37 p.m. EDT with the limousine-sized Moonlet. The rumble may echo in diplomatic halls.

The satellite, dubbed Midas II and essentially a repeat of a shot which failed Feb. 26, was equipped with a super-cooled infra-red sensor to spot missile launchings from an orbit about 300 miles above earth.

The space-borne alarm system, peering over thousands of square miles each second, would give America a 30-minute warning of an impending missile onslaught. This is about twice the warning time available with present radar systems.

The Air Force planned to test the satellite with flares fired at Edwards Air Force Base and Vandenberg AFB, Calif., this week. It also was reported the air force might time the launchings of intercontinental ballistic missiles to coincide with a pass by Midas II.

WIFE MADE SURE HUSBY GOT NABBED

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—When officers arrived at the residence of a hurry-up call, the wife told them her husband was inside drunk and she wanted him arrested.

The officers demurred, explaining that a man cannot be arrested for being drunk in his own home.

The woman picked up her husband, carried him out into the street and dumped him. "He's in a public street now, arrest him!" Police did.

Island Gas Rates Appeal

An appeal for cheaper natural gas rates on Vancouver Island is being made to the National Energy Board.

The application by Island Transmission Co. is believed the first case put before the newly-created Ottawa board.

Gas prices proposed by Magna Pipelines for the Island would be "prohibitive," Island president Richard M. Bond, of Nanaimo, said today.

Magna was awarded a certificate of convenience to go ahead with a pipeline to the Island by the Public Utilities Commission. Island was the loser.

A price of 32 cents per thousand cubic feet was proposed by Magna, which has an agreement with Westcoast Transmission Ltd., which serves the lower mainland, to buy its gas here. Island says it can supply cheaper gas.

The appeal application, which is being filed by former B.C. attorney-general Gordon Wismer, says Westcoast has a contract with a U.S. firm to sell gas for only 22 cents.

"We believe that this is a serious discrimination against the people and the industries established on Vancouver Island," said Mr. Bond.

HINDER INDUSTRY

"We are also convinced that it will further hinder the development of new industry on the Island and that it will give the lower mainland a preferred position when new industrial projects are under consideration."

Gas tariffs should be equalized, said Mr. Bond.

Pacific Northwest Pipeline Co. in the U.S. has a tariff one third below that of the B.C. lower mainland, he said.

By the time the gas reached the Island customer, transmission costs would have pushed its price considerably higher. Estimated price by Magna is 60 cents to the customer per thousand cubic feet.

Mr. Bond said that Island Natural Gas Co. which has a contract with Westcoast to supply the Okanagan, is subsidized by the parent company to cut its rates.

"Island Transmission is fully prepared to sign the same type of contract as that applying to Pacific Northwest," said Mr. Bond.

The National Energy Board, he said, has the power to ensure all tolls "are just and reasonable."

The PUC certificate award to Magna is currently being appealed by Island to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-council. Mr. Bond suggested the energy board might influence the appeal by laying down "just" rates.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our dear heavenly Father, give me the peace from knowing that this day I shall seek Thy presence with words of adoration, feelings of deep devotion to Thy will and deeds of dedicated service in Thy kingdom. Having done my best to serve Thee, let me not fret, but leave the outcome of my efforts to Thy care; In Jesus' name, Amen.

Japan Battered By Huge Seas

TOKYO (UPI)—Tidal waves up to 32 feet high lashed a great crescent of the Pacific from Australia to Alaska Monday night and today.

Partial reports listed at least 139 dead and many missing from the earthquake-driven seas which ramed across more than 5,000 miles at speeds up to 400 miles an hour.

Uncounted hundreds were injured and damage ran into millions of dollars.

Japan's heavily populated main island of Honshu bore the brunt of the towering walls of water which pounded the coasts at 40-minute intervals for periods as long as 18 hours. Nearly 800 casualties—dead, missing and injured—were reported in Japan alone.

At least 150,000 were homeless in Japan.

The tidal waves, rolling westward from earthquake-stricken Chile, struck the Hawaiian Islands Monday, killing 32 persons and leaving 27 missing.

The waves swept on to Okinawa, the Philippines, New Zealand, Japan, Australia, and most Pacific islands.

Officials in Hawaii said damage to the Hilo waterfront alone would run as high as $50,000,000.

Loss of life on such U.S. Pacific bastions as Okinawa, Johnson Island and others was prevented by ample warning. However three natives were killed on Okinawa and eight Maori were swept out to sea when 10-foot waves pounded New Zealand.

In Japan the destruction was great. The Japan National Broadcasting Corporation reported 96 persons dead, 75 missing and 626 injured. It said 4,600 houses were destroyed, 44,000 damaged and 1,900 boats destroyed. The newspaper Kahoku Shimpō reported 88,000 homeless in northern Honshu.

New Zealand Coast Pounded 18 Hours

New Zealand's harbor installations were hard hit by 10-foot waves which pounded the east coast for 18 hours. Hundreds of small boats disappeared without a trace and harbors were wrecked and may not be in operation for weeks.

The 3,000-ton cargo ship Crusader was grounded on entering Lyttelton Harbor when the tide level suddenly dropped 10 feet between waves.

Some of the effects in New Zealand were freakish. Hundreds of eels were left floundering in the fields.

Delayed reports from the Philippines said giant waves hit the east coast of the islands, causing widespread damage and panic.

A government warning that permitted many coastal residents to move out of their homes in advance of the waves was credited with saving many lives, but some fishermen were caught putting out to sea in the early morning.

The walls of water smashed with greatest fury Monday into Hawaii, particularly the port city of Hilo.

Officials today listed 33 persons known dead and 27 missing in the area where 159 were killed by a tidal wave that struck without warning in 1946.

Five killer waves, three to eight feet high, punched in land as much as a mile, sweeping whole blocks of buildings off their foundations in the Waialae district.

Eagle said—a seven-block strip along Namehameha Avenue was "a staggering picture of devastation. Hundreds of businesses have been wiped out. Some big buildings have been flattened and others lurch at crazy angles over the street.

On the main island of Oahu, waves swept across famous Waikiki Beach in Honolulu, forcing tourists into upper floors of resort hotels.

Tidal waves up to five feet high lashed the California coast Monday, beaching boats and damaging dock facilities from San Diego to the Oregon border.

Damage was estimated at one million dollars in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area, where surging water ripped 60 yachts from their moorings.

In Alaska, 12 waves up to 15 feet high struck Montague Island.

More Shocks Hit Refugees

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—A new series of earthquakes sent high sections of Chileo Island off the Chilean coast sliding toward the sea today, carrying with them many of the refugees who had fled there from Ancud.

The new shocks were occurring every 10 minutes.

Ancud, a town of about 8,000 persons, was one of the places hit hardest in the series of earthquakes, tidal waves and floods which devastated southern Chile and may have killed thousands of persons. It is 800 miles below Santiago.

Reports from Ancud today said the sharp series of earthquakes was sending the high ground sliding into the sea, endangering refugees who have huddled in the open without food or shelter since the quakes began last weekend.

TOLL "THOUSANDS"

New reports of devastation in the south Chile earthquakes brought fears in official circles today the death toll would soar into the thousands.

Already a shortage of food and water and the threat of

GM OF CANADA WILL PRODUCE COMPACT CAR

TORONTO (CP) — General Motors of Canada announced Friday it will produce an all-Canadian compact car — the Invader — this fall. No other details were announced.

President E. H. Walker said the company will use the three compact which the United States parent firm announced Friday it will manufacture.

Okanagan Telephone Profits Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — Okanagan Telephone Company reports a new profit of $221,473 last year, an increase of $13,671 from the previous year.

The company, which operates a telephone system in the Okanagan area, had an operating profit of $176,000 compared with $1,594,248 the previous year.

Operating expenses were $1,422,073 against $1,271,233. President F. A. Sherrin said earnings equalled 67 cents a share.

He said the last remaining manual telephones in the area were converted to dial operation last year.

Direct dialing was scheduled to be installed in the Penticton area this month. Installations in Kelowna would be completed later this year and would be established in Vernon and Salmon Arm in the spring of 1961.

Huge Boom Faces Pipeline Firms

OTTAWA (UPI) — The first large-scale export of natural gas to the U.S. seems certain to set off a new and bigger boom for an industry that already is Canada's fastest growing business.

Predictions of a 300 per cent sales increase, a 400 per cent boost in production revenue and a billion dollar investment program flowed thick and fast following the federal government's approval of four export applications.

In dollar terms, the most conservative forecasts say the export of more than a billion cubic feet of gas a day for the next 25 years will mean annual net earnings of more than $75 million, direct and immediate capital investment of some $200 million and an overall boost in Canada's national income of about $135 million a year.

The gas itself will not flow to various U.S. markets before 1963. Capital investment, highlighted by construction of three new pipelines to transport the export gas, began immediately.

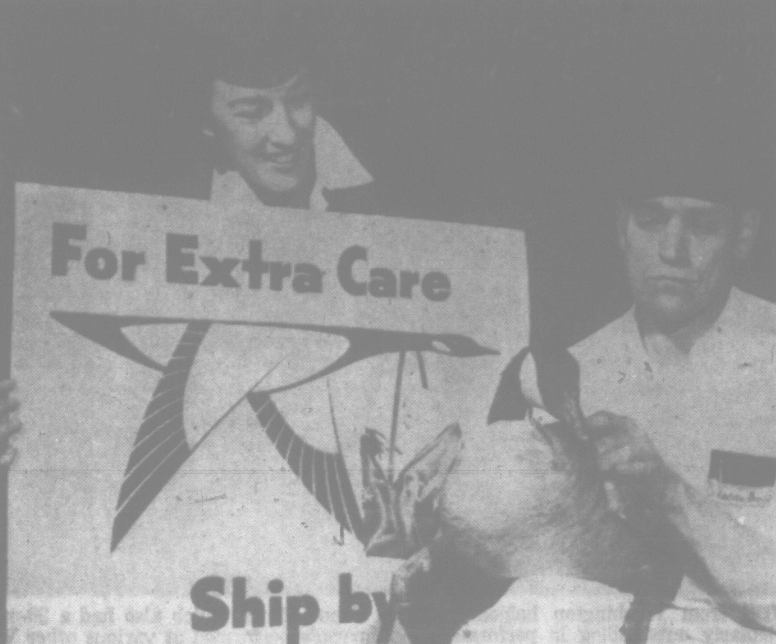

MAIN MARKET

The main U.S. market will be the Pacific northwest. Alberta and Southern Gas Co. will move 450 million cubic feet a day into northern and central California, while Westcoast Transmission Ltd. will send 152 million into eastern Washington.

'Throes of Uncertainty' Says Financial Survey

LONDON (CP) — The Financial Times, in a discussion of Canada's economy, says Canadians are in the throes of "uncertainty—to be followed in turn by criticism and reappraisal."

The paper describes as things of the past "the mood of incorrigible optimism, the belief in the inevitability of continuing rapid development, and subconscious feeling that so long as the economy went on expanding—and the gross national product went on rising—then nothing else much mattered."

The publication says the big question—troubling Canadians is whether or not Canada's development should continue to be financed largely by overseas and particularly United States capital.

ANNUAL SURVEY

The comments are made in a leading article discussing the annual Financial Times Survey of Canada, a 56-page supplement published Monday. The survey deals with world markets for Canadian goods, trends in national production and finance and the influence of business activity in the U.S.

The newspaper says the debate about objectives now going on centres on the political desirability of permitting foreign interests to have more than a strictly limited stake in Canada's productive capacity.

Stemming from this is the question of whether the country will be able to meet the interest and other costs to service foreign debt if the capital inflow continues at high levels.

The publication feels "it is hard to believe that the decisive encroachments, if these should ever come, will be made by U.S. investment capital."

There is no real evidence that foreign or American capital, when it arrives in Canada, has a tendency to behave in unpatriotic ways. . . .

Personal Income Increased 6.1% During Last Year

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canadian personal income totalled $25,940,000,000 in 1959 up 6.1 per cent from $24,440,000,000 a year earlier, the Bureau of Statistics has announced.

All provinces shared in the increase.

Personal income by province, with 1958 figures in parentheses, was: Newfoundland, $378,000,000 ($359,000,000); Prince Edward Island, $93,000,000 ($85,000,000); Nova Scotia, $799,000,000 ($752,000,000); New Brunswick, $571,000,000 ($533,000,000); Quebec, $10,320,000,000 ($9,637,000,000); Manitoba, $1,317,000,000 ($1,252,000,000); Saskatchewan, $1,181,000,000 ($1,138,000,000); Alberta, $1,956,000,000 ($1,843,000,000); British Columbia, $2,215,000,000 ($2,567,000,000); Yukon and Northwest Territories, $37,000,000 ($36,000,000); and outside Canada, $36,000,000 ($36,000,000).

Experts are confident, too, that the gas sales will open a further development — and subsequent U.S. market — for by-products such as propane and butane. Some estimate that revenue from this source will add $800,000,000 over the 25 years.

The government green light on exports will not account wholly for the boom. Domestic demand is expected to keep in step with the growing foreign sales.

Canadian Firms Must Construct Plants in Europe

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's secondary manufacturers can only beat Europe's high tariffs and low prices by establishing plants on the continent, says a Canadian marketing executive.

Paul Greenberg, co-chairman of the Montreal and Toronto advertising agency of Stanfield, Johnson and Hill Limited, says a recent tour of Europe convinced him manufacturers of consumer goods must move right into Europe if they hope to compete for the Continental market.

The tariff walls being built by the European Common Market and the European Free Trade Area will otherwise prove an insurmountable barrier to high-cost goods manufactured in this country, Mr. Greenberg said.

Therefore small and medium-sized Canadian firms must follow the lead of U.S., British and German manufacturers and set up shop in the countries where they hope to sell.

"These countries welcome capital, labor is cheap, plentiful and resourceful," Mr. Greenberg said.

MANY OPPORTUNITIES

He said there were many opportunities open to Canadian investors — such as food processing, packaging and retailing, and leather manufacturing.

And investment would help change the European image of Canada. At present, Mr. Greenberg said, Europeans don't think of Canada as an industrial nation, but as a country exporting primary products such as metals and newsprint.

"Canadians can only cure this situation by going out and making their country better known."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrials Display Strength at Toronto

Throwing off the after-holiday feeling early the Toronto stock market was up as industrials gained strength.

Dominion Dairies paced industrial leaders with a gain of 1 1/4 at 11 1/4. Steel Company of Canada was up a point at 75 1/2, and Dominion Foundries, Texaco Canada and Toronto-Dominion Bank were all up.

The New York market was irregular today. Texas Instruments spurred more than eight points. Down about a point were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodyear, Standard Oil and Texaco.

AT TORONTO Hudson Bay and International Nickel led the depression among mines, both off 1/4 at 45 1/2 and 54, with Labrador off 1/4 at 20 1/2 and Cassiar and Falconbridge both down 1/4 at 12 and 31 1/2.

All senior uraniums were trading lower: Denison off 35 cents at $9.10, Gunpowder off 25 cents at $7.40 and Algoma off 1/4 at 12.

Canadian Husky led western oils back into favor with a 20-cent gain at $5.95, with Great Plains ahead 10 cents at $6.40.

Pacific Petroleum lost 30 cents at $9.95 and Bailey Selburn was off 20 cents at $5.90.

AT NEW YORK changes were small in the Canadian list. Up fractions were Aluminum Ltd., Dome Mines, McIntyre Porcupine and Walker-Gooderham. International Nickel and Distillers-Seagrams lost 1/4 each. Canadian Pacific also eased.

American Exchange prices were generally higher. Most Canadian oils were lower.

AT MONTREAL the stock exchange began to sag today but the industrial index recorded a gain. Trading was light.

AT LONDON the stock market prices continued firm to day. Industrials advanced on a broad front.

Oil-edged made scattered gains in response to a small investment demand.

Gold showed marked strength.

Oils were quiet and irregular.

U.S. Gives UN Names of Red Spies

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The United States today backed up its spy charges against the Soviet Union by laying before the United Nations the detailed record of 11 alleged Russian agents named Monday by Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Lodge handed the document to U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and requested that it be circulated among the members of the Security Council.

Laos Rebel Chiefs Escape to Jungle

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Rebel Pathet Lao leader Prince Souphanouvong and 15 followers escaped from jail and fled into the jungle today.

The group, under arrest since the middle of last year, slipped through a heavy military guard at their detention camp three miles from Vientiane, an army spokesman said.

Nixon Claims Enough to Win Nod

WASHINGTON—Vice-President Richard M. Nixon today passed the majority mark needed for the republican presidential nomination: He claimed a total of 686 pledges with only 666 needed.

A Tennessee State convention instructed 28 national convention delegates for Nixon. The vice-president was unopposed for 26 more in today's Florida primary.

Gas Rates
Appeal

An appeal for cheaper natural gas rates on Vancouver Island is being made to the National Energy Board.

The application by Island Transmission Co. is believed the first case put before the newly-created Ottawa board.

Gas prices proposed by Magna Pipelines for the Island would be "prohibitive," Island president Richard M. Bond, of Nanaimo, said today.

Magna was awarded a certificate of convenience to go ahead with a pipeline to the Island by the Public Utilities Commission. Island was the loser.

A price of 32 cents per thousand cubic feet was proposed by Magna, which has an agreement with Westcoast Transmission Ltd., which serves the lower mainland, to buy its gas here. Island says it can supply cheaper gas.

The appeal application, which is being filed by former B.C. attorney-general Gordon Wismer, says Westcoast has a contract with a U.S. firm to sell gas for only 22 cents.

"We believe that this is a serious discrimination against the people and the industries established on Vancouver Island," said Mr. Bond.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The United States launched a 2½-ton Midas earth satellite today to test a "spy-in-the-sky" system for detecting hostile missiles within seconds after they are fired.

A few hours later it was reported the satellite was successfully in orbit.

An 88-foot, two-stage Atlas Agena blasted from the Cape at 1:37 p.m. EDT with the limousine-sized Moonlet. The rumble may echo in diplomatic halls.

The satellite, dubbed Midas II and essentially a repeat of a shot which failed Feb. 26, was equipped with a super-cooled infra-red sensor to spot missile launchings from an orbit about 300 miles above earth.

The space-borne alarm system, peering over thousands of square miles each second, would give America a 30-minute warning of an impending missile onslaught. This is about twice the warning time available with present radar systems.

The Air Force planned to test the satellite with flares fired at Edwards Air Force Base and Vandenberg AFB, Calif., this week. It also was reported the air force might time the launchings of intercontinental ballistic missiles to coincide with a pass by Midas II.

LAST TWO SURVIVORS
TAKEN FROM MCKINLEY

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Alaska's mountain rescue saga ended today with the safe arrival here of the last two men stranded on Mount McKinley since last Tuesday night.

The Whittaker Twins of Redmond, Wash.—James and Louis—were taken to the Elmendorf Air Force Base hospital for treatment of minor frostbite.

The Whittakers came down off the mountain under their own power.

Still on the mountain were 15 to 20 mountain climbers, who took part in the rescue of the Whittakers, two companions and a very ill woman who had been a member of another climbing party.

UN Council Unlikely
To Back Red Charges

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Trying to repair the wreckage of the summit, the United Nations Security Council was called back into its emergency session this afternoon after hearing the Soviet Union and the United States exchange spy charges. Britain's Sir Pierson Dixon was among those expected to speak, and in the background of the debate was a proposal calling on the Big Four to resume the negotiations that collapsed at the summit in Paris last week.

Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko charged at the opening of the special session Monday that U.S. spy flights were aggressive acts creating a threat to universal peace. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge retorted that Russia has thousands of spies around the world.

Gromyko—the only foreign minister in the debate—spoke for an hour, following in more moderate terms the denunciation of the U.S. unleashed by Premier Khrushchev in Paris.

Lodge spoke for only 15 minutes and he, too, quoted the words of his chief, President Eisenhower, at the summit regarding the American U-2 spy flights that drew Russian wrath.

At the outset of the debate council president Sir Claude Corea of Ceylon pleaded for a "renewed spirit of goodwill" and said the security body had the "opportunity to conduct its

9 Fliers

BERLIN (UPI)—The Soviet Union promised today to release the nine Americans captured Friday when their army C-47 transport strayed behind the Iron curtain and it was believed the nine would reach West Germany this afternoon.

The U.S. army dispatched a liaison team headed by Lt. Col. Clarke T. Baldwin of Warren, Va., deep into Communist territory to bring the nine persons aboard to safety, either in their own airplane or by road.

The team of army officers from the American military mission Potsdam, East Germany, inspected the plane this afternoon in the grain field where Soviet MIG-17 jet fighters forced it to land Friday.

The Soviet decision to release the plane was announced in an unusually conciliatory letter from Col. Gen. O. I. Jacobowski, Soviet commander in Germany, to Gen. Clyde D. Eddlema, U.S. army commander.

The note—which contrasted sharply with Russian reaction to the U-2 spy plane incident—said the eight men and one woman, and their aircraft would be turned over to the U.S. army at the point where it landed and at a time chosen by the U.S. army.

BULLETIN

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The ministry of interior announced today that 500 persons perished in tidal waves Sunday at the port of Queule and a new tidal wave today killed 102 persons at Aleta.

This raised the toll to more than 1,000 persons dead and 500 missing in the series of earthquakes, tidal waves and landslides in southern Chile since Saturday, the ministry of interior said.

A new series of earthquakes rocked the mountainous area of the stricken south today, sending landslides into the Pacific Ocean at Maullin, in Llanquihue province.

TOKYO (UPI)—Tidal waves up to 32 feet high lashed a great crescent of the Pacific from Australia to Alaska Monday night and today.

Partial reports listed at least 139 dead and many missing from the earthquake-driven seas which rammed across the ocean at speeds up to 400 miles an hour.

Uncounted hundreds were injured and damage ran into millions of dollars.

Japan's heavily populated main island of Honshu bore the brunt of the towering walls of water which pounded the coasts at 40-minute intervals for periods as long as 18 hours. Nearly 800 casualties—dead, missing and injured—were reported in Japan alone.

At least 150,000 were homeless in Japan.

The tidal waves, rolling westward from earthquake-stricken Chile, struck the Hawaiian Islands Monday, killing 32 persons and leaving 27 missing.

The waves swept on to Okinawa, the Philippines, New Zealand, Japan, Australia, and most Pacific islands.

Officials in Hawaii said damage to the Hilo waterfront alone would run as high as $50,000,000.

Loss of life on such U.S. Pacific bastions as Okinawa, Johnston Island and others was prevented by ample warning. However three natives were killed on Okinawa and eight Maori were swept out to sea

SURGE FELT IN VICTORIA

The awesome force of the tidal wave generated off the coast of Chile was felt Monday at Victoria, about 7,000 miles away, in a series of tidal surges that broke up log booms in the Selkirk water of the Gorge above Point Ellice Bridge.

More Shocks
Hit Refugees

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—A new series of earthquakes sent high sections of Chiloe Island off the Chilean coast sliding toward the sea today, carrying with them many of the refugees who had fled there from Ancud.

The new shocks were occurring every 10 minutes.

Ancud, a town of about 8,000 persons, was one of the places hit hardest in the series of earthquakes, tidal waves and floods which devastated southern Chile and may have killed thousands of persons. It is 800 miles below Santiago.

Reports from Ancud today said the sharp series of earthquakes was sending the high ground sliding into the sea, endangering refugees who have huddled in the open without food or shelter since the quakes began last weekend.

TOLL "THOUSANDS"

New reports of devastation in the south Chile earthquakes brought fears in official circles today the death toll would soar into the thousands.

Already a shortage of food and water and the threat of demands.
